In Our HOUSE
By Arthur Mayse

*****

In come the mace, the Speaker and the clerks, and we are in session again with durable, multiple minister Ken Kiernan up and a lengthy session of ear-banging to follow.

We will return to Mr. Kiernan later, but first a preachment to certain members who, in this matter of replies to the Throne, have been talking bit between teeth and galloping all round the compass.

A touch of rhetoric, gentlemen, is necessary to parliamentary debate as horse radish to roast beef; but please, let it be remembered also that brevity is the soul of wit.

Walkabout

We could have managed very well, for instance, without NDP William Hartley's excruciatingly detailed walkabout in which I verily believe we took tea with each burgher of Yale Riding.

Also, while young Liberal Dr. Patrick McGeer of Vancouver-Point Grey is one of the Legislature's best, there are those who were less than pleased to find him still holding forth when the evening sitting commenced.

Our new and yearling members would do well to study ministerial technique. With much of genuine importance to impart, the cabinet member generally manages to do so with grace... but also with a minimum of fluff-duff!

Sniff-About

Back now to our minister of mines and plenty else beside, who smells a smelter for the Queen Charlotte Islands, and hints of a pending offshore exploration rights tussle between Bennett's boys and the Feds.

Later, delving into his recreation and conservation folio, minister Kiernan came up with what may be a harmless cantaloupe but might also just prove to be a bomb.

There are in the province," he pointed out, "11 major provincial parks with a combined area in excess of 6,000,000 acres. In some of these it will be desirable, I believe, to preserve the virgin wilderness.

Shift About?

"The average person does not seem to consider virgin wilderness as too much of an asset, however, and desires substantial improvements to his park areas.

"It would seem, therefore, we must of necessity direct our efforts to increasing the number of facilities available as developed or semi-developed parks."

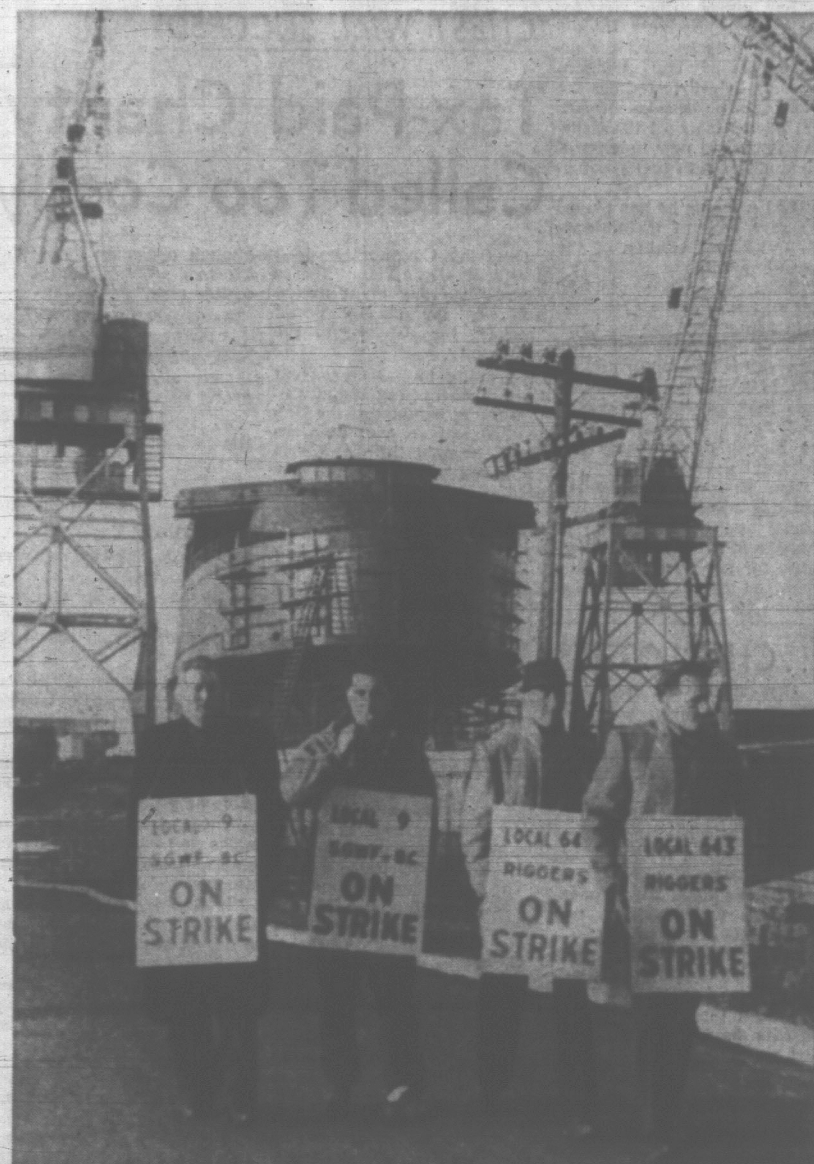

In his next breath, Mr. Kiernan admits the loggers and miners weren't always as tidy as they might have been, but assures us all this is changing.

Later, Mr. Kiernan will return to this topic. When he does, I hope he will answer a question which his Tuesday remarks must raise in the mind of every sportsman and conservationist.

Watch Your Neighbor
VANCOUVER (CP)—Two British Columbia labor groups will investigate reports that a credit-rating bureau has offered to pay householders to spy on their neighbors. They are the B.C. Federation of Labour and the Vancouver and District Labour Council.

City Shipyard Men Shun Stay-on-the-Job Appeal

Mainland Unions Report for Work

Three Victoria shipyard union leaders were attending strike-settlement talks in Vancouver today amid growing disunity and confusion among workers.

About 1,400 employees at Yarrow's Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot went out at 7 a.m. today, while 600 workers at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver responded to a provincial labor department plea to work at least until strike-settlement talks could be held.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands, ordered to Vancouver by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, met at 10 a.m. with union and management representatives.

'ENOUGH TIME'
Metal Trades Council president James McConachy, leading the Victoria delegation of three to the Vancouver meeting, said the unions here decided to go ahead and strike because "we feel there has been enough time to get together on this thing."

Two recent meetings were held in Vancouver without Victoria representation.

Although Burrard union men postponed their strike, Mr. McConachy claimed the labor department approach came "too late" to halt the "strike machinery in motion."

At VMD, this morning, placarded pickets shivered as they moved slowly around the chilly Dallas Road frontage of the yard.

Some comments were directed against Mr. McConachy and his strike-settlement trip ("the men voted on this—what's he got to do with it now?")

MEN BITTER
More bitter talk was against Burrard workers, whose 600 non-strikers seemed to bear out Tuesday's comment by Burrard general manager David Wallace:

"Different unions have different objections. We can't do anything until they all get together and think and act alike."

When a commissioner arrived at VMD shortly after 7 a.m., he called: "Get these gates open—the strike doesn't start until 11 a.m."

He was ignored. At Yarrow's, 50 office workers not involved in the dispute were advised to decide for themselves whether to support yard workers.

All honored the strike and did not report for work. VMD office staff worked as usual.

Still unfinished in the idle VMD yard is the near-completed B.C. ferry "Queen of Nanaimo," the soon-to-be-launched "Queen of New Westminster," and two barges.

JURY Hoffa Boasted Of 'Fix'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—A teamsters' official testified today that James Hoffa once boasted he had fixed the jury in his 1962 conspiracy in Nashville.

The government witness said Hoffa told him, "I have got the colored male juror in my hip pocket."

The testimony by Edward Partin, officer of a Baton Rouge, La., teamsters' local, was the first to link Hoffa directly to charges that he tried to bribe and influence jurors in the conspiracy trial.

Partin also said Hoffa told him "he would pay $15,000 to $20,000 to get to the jury." He said the proposal was made in a Nashville hotel room while the trial was in progress.

'BEST BET'
Partin quoted the teamster chief as saying: "It looks like our best bet is a hung jury. That's the same as acquittal, because they'd never try me again."

There was only one Negro juror in Hoffa's conspiracy trial. He was Gratin Fields, a retired railroad worker. Fields was one of three panel members discharged before the case was declared a mistrial.

Partin appeared calm when talking the witness stand today over strong defence objections that he was a "government informer" planted in their midst. He testified with his hands folded neatly in his lap.

Hoffa, to the contrary, stared intently at the witness and repeatedly turned to scribble notes for his defence lawyers.

Woman Overboard
NEW YORK (CP) — The Empress of Canada today reported a 38-year-old woman overboard off the New Jersey coast about 160 miles south of New York. Her identity was not immediately available.

A Legal Basis For Dull Sermons?

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve Metropolitan Toronto ministers have decided to seek permission from the provincial government to use hypnosis on their parishioners.

The clergymen-four United Church, four Anglican, three Baptist and one Presbyterian—will meet Feb. 13 to begin a campaign to have the right to practise hypnosis extended to "qualified" clergymen.

Rev. Lindsay King of suburban Scarborough said the group will either send a brief or a delegation to Health Minister Dymond requesting the change.

The ministers attended training sessions in pastoral hypnotism last week under Rev. Joseph Wittkowski, a canon in the United States Protestant Episcopal Church and director of pastoral training at Pittsburgh's Brad Institute.

"Hypnosis was made by God and should be used as part of deeply meaningful spiritual exercises," Dr. Wittkowski said. But he warned: "Hypnosis is neither a toy nor a magic cure-all."

Dr. Wittkowski said that during the last 20 years he has used hypnosis in pastoral counselling and helped hundreds with problems ranging from overweight, alcoholism, insomnia and fear of dentists.

Tory Rebels Beaten Down By John D.

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—John Diefenbaker Tuesday tightened his control of the Progressive Conservative party, putting down dissident elements of the party in what appeared to be a "no contest" vote.

Of the approximately 800 voting delegates attending the Tory party's annual meeting only about 35 stood up in opposition to their leader.

The remainder gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence.

Among those who publicly opposed Mr. Diefenbaker—a move for a secret ballot was defeated—were former defence minister Douglas Harkness, of Calgary, and former Conservative MP from Toronto, M. J. McDonnell.

On the vote for the secret ballot, the idea was pushed aside by about 4 to 1, so far as reporters watching from a mezzanine could judge.

The confidence vote climaxed an emotion-charged day, when rumor after rumor about new developments in the leadership issue swirled through the meeting rooms and corridors of the Chateau Laurier.

SKILLFUL SPEECH

The day also saw Mr. Diefenbaker firmly and aggressively tell the rank-and-file of the party, in one of the most skillful speeches of his career, that they must end internal bickering and either back him or get rid of him.

The Conservative leader was not in the Chateau Laurier ballroom, where delegates met, when the vote was taken. He made his appeal to the meeting in a speech delivered in the early afternoon, then, with his wife, left the ballroom to mingle with delegates in corridors, and to rest. He had delivered his fourth speech in as many days.

The vote was taken shortly before six p.m. after most of the afternoon had been taken up in the debate over whether the leadership confidence question should be decided by secret ballot or the traditional "stand-up-and-be-counted" vote.

DIDN'T TAKE SIDES
In his speech Mr. Diefenbaker said he would not take sides on the question of how the vote should be taken.

There was no debate on the resolution expressing confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership. All possibility of debate was choked off when Yukon MP Eric Nelson, supported by Toronto Tory Hal Jackman, moved that the confidence motion "be now put."

U.S. Women, Children Flee Cyprus Terrorists

By HAL McCLURE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An emergency airlift began removing hundreds of American women and children from this Mediterranean trouble spot today as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

Terrorists bombed the American Embassy in Nicosia Tuesday night, slightly injured a marine guard, then set ablaze two cars owned by U.S. government employees.

U.S. Ambassador Fraser Wilkins ordered a "voluntary" evacuation of American dependants to Beirut, Lebanon, explaining he no longer had confidence in the ability of Greek-Cypriot police to keep order.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot president, inspected damage to the embassy and denounced the bombing as the work of "heinous criminals."

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek-Cypriot opposition to an American-British plan to assign a NATO peace force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answerable to the United Nations Security Council. The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would

SIX NEGROES TURNED AWAY

Photographer Beaten As School Kept White

(Times News Service)
NOTASULGA, Ala. — Mayor Jack Rea today turned away six Negro students ordered admitted to an all-white school here, a white photographer was beaten into submission by police and an angry crowd of whites struck another newsmen.

Rea's action set the stage for the first major school integration crisis to confront President Johnson.

Six other Negro students entered the previously all-white school at nearby Shorter without incident but half the white student body boycotted classes.

The violence at Notasulga, population 1,200, broke out when the bus bringing the six Negro students appeared. It was stopped and two local officers entered the vehicle.

A young white man, Vernon Merritt III, of Birmingham, Ala., was dragged kicking and yelling from the bus and beaten with clubs and a walking stick.

Merritt, a photographer, apparently had accompanied the Negroes on the ride to the school for their first day of classes.

Rea stood waiting in the schoolhouse door flanked by Macon county policemen.

Acting as fire and safety inspector under a new ordinance, he told the Negro students that he had determined after an investigation that the maximum capacity of Notasulga High School was the number now enrolled. He said that no additional students of any race could be admitted without violating the law.

The average daily attendance of Notasulga High is 174. Merritt was dragged from

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Heard in the traffic fines office, now located in the old courthouse at Bastion Square:

"Is this the highway robbery department?"

The Royal Canadian Navy has acquired two new ships, courtesy of the morning "news" paper.

A despatch with an Associated Press dateline stated: "Three Canadian destroyer escorts are here on a four-day goodwill visit as part of a Far East training cruise. The vessels, the HMCS Fraser, Mackenzie and St. Lawrence, have visited Hawaii, Midway and Guam."

Presumably the Fraser and St. Laurent never left their home port of Esquimalt.

As a weekend visitor to the University of Victoria's open house I was doubly impressed.

I marvelled at all the electronic gadgets and other up-to-the-minute facilities in the new science building that were only dreams when I last saw a university laboratory.

There just seemed no end to man's ingenuity!

But I couldn't help marvelling also at the horribly rutted and tank-trap-size potholes that straddled narrow Gordon Head Road crossing the campus.

There just seemed no end to man's backwardness!

Another funny contrast that struck me at the open house involves what I think was a strategic error in allowing the public into the lower-floor working area of the Student Union Building.

A tastefully-furnished and spacious common room in the building was alright—but it was a little shattering to see the almost sumptuous offices of the various student body organizations.

And after many a "working stiff" sees the Board Room—the student council chamber that appears to have been furnished by Cecil B. de Mille—he may hesitate the next time the university passes the hat for more building funds.

Not that the students shouldn't have the best, even for "fun" activities, but was it wise to flaunt it?

Intercom system between patients' beds and nurses' duty desks in new wing of Royal Jubilee Hospital, has not only saved many steps, medical administrator Dr. Murray Anderson told the Junior Auxiliary to the hospital at annual meeting, Monday afternoon, it has resulted in one of the briefest requests on record.

System was carefully explained to a Chinese patient when he was given his bed. Later, when he wanted to call a nurse he pushed the button, made his connection, heard the nurse's voice and then couldn't find the English words to tell her he had a violent stomach-ache.

Finally, he put his mouth close to the little black box and ground out one word—"Ouch!"

It was effective, Dr. Anderson said. "The nurse understood."

Esquimalt council must be beginning to wonder if movies are really better than ever.

Only five people have turned up to view Sunday afternoon movies sponsored by Esquimalt Recreation Commission for the past two weeks.

It has cost the municipality $13.27 and silver collections have realized only 75 cents.

A final try will be made Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at Esquimalt Jubilee Hall, Fraser Street.

Officers of the 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, now stationed in West Germany, say they miss the fishing and hunting facilities they enjoyed on Vancouver Island.

But there are compensations. Some German sportsmen have invited them to take part in a boar hunt and the woods around Hemer, where they are stationed, abound with rabbits and pheasants.

"The country is not unlike parts of Metcosh," writes Capt. Richard Macgregor Macintosh, who is training officer with the battalion.

CITY SHIPYARDS

A VMD crew has also stopped work on modernization of the DE "Ottawa" at Esquimalt graving dock.

Yarrows' yard still holds the unfinished Pacific Naval Laboratory ship, refit of HMCS New Glasgow, and other jobs.

Riggers' Union local 643 held a special meeting Tuesday night.

Some HMC Dockyard riggers—out of the Big Three contract negotiations—voted a day's pay each per week to the strike fund, Riggers' hourly rate is $2.70.

The Boilermakers' Union, biggest of the 22 shipyard unions, says it will "look after our boys."

Other unions would not disclose what strike-pay provisions they have made.

CALLLED OFF

A delegation headed by Mayor R. B. Wilson to Ottawa to protest the awarding of DE conversion contracts will be called off.

Mayor Wilson said today: "In view of the strike in the shipyards, it would appear appropriate to reassess the advisability of going to Ottawa at this time."

Preparation of the brief will continue.

NATO Agrees To RCAF Move

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Hellyer announced today that agreement has been reached with NATO to shift the two RCAF CF-104 squadrons at Gros Tequien, France, to bases in Germany where they and the four existing squadrons there will be equipped with both nuclear and conventional weapons.

Meanwhile, a defence department source said the technical agreement between Canada and the United States to supply the

Marriage Refused

WIMBORNE, England (Reuters)—A court here Tuesday refused the marriage application of a 16-year-old expectant mother on the grounds that it had reason to think that the marriage "cannot possibly last."

CF-104s with small nuclear bombs now have been signed, and the weapons will be delivered to the six squadrons in "early summer."

The Gros Tequien base will be closed, Mr. Hellyer's statement said.

Remaining in France, at Marville, will be two CF-104 squadrons which will be equipped for reconnaissance "and, in due course, for a ground attack role, armed with conventional weapons."

One of the two CF-104 squadrons at Gros Tequien will be moved to No. 3 Fighter Wing at Zweibrücken, Germany, and the other to No. 4 Fighter Wing at Baden-Soellingen.

Mr. Hellyer said closing the Gros Tequien base will save the government about $3,000,000 a year and mean a personnel reduction of 700.

after the method of voting was decided.

This was the text of the resolution of confidence: "Whereas the Right Honourable John Diefenbaker has rendered conspicuous and distinguished service to this party and to our nation;

"And whereas he has been a steadfast advocate of individual freedom, and a relentless opponent of discrimination, prejudice and social injustice;

"And whereas he has restored the Conservative party to its historic dominant role in Canadian politics by the unique achievement of three consecutive mandates at the polls;

"And whereas the leadership he has given to policies for the Atlantic provinces, the agriculture industry and the development of our northern frontiers helped to redress the grievances of decades of Liberal neglect and led the Canadian nation to new heights of economic growth and prosperity;

"And whereas he has played a signal role in maintaining the unity and vitality of the Commonwealth;

"Be it therefore resolved that all Conservatives reaffirm their admiration for his courage and dedication, and confidence in his leadership, and extend to him their unanimous hope that he will continue in good health and strength in the service of his party and his country;

"And be it further resolved that this association extends a special and heartfelt vote of appreciation to Mrs. Diefenbaker for her faithful and unexampled loyalty and devotion as his wife and helpmate."

Coal is expensive to mine, but special processes of producing low grade coal are under investigation, Mr. Kiernan said.

Mr. Kiernan said B.C. may well become a major producer of molybdenum, a "space age metal" capable of withstanding tremendous heat, through explorations under way in two other areas of the province—Endako, near Prince George and Boss Mountain in the Cariboo.

He said the Boss Mountain deposits may be in production next year.

COPPER PROBING

In addition huge copper deposits in the Stikine area of northwestern B.C. are being investigated near Telegraph Creek, Mr. Kiernan said.

Much of the work is being done by helicopter, which Mr. Kiernan said is the modern equivalent of the bush planes of the 1930s which opened up the north.

Mr. Kiernan for the third year repeated B.C.'s claim to the oil rights off its coastline, a matter of dispute with the federal government.

COASTLY

After giving Ottawa an outline of the B.C. case for the oil rights, Mr. Kiernan said he is still waiting for a reply, promised before Christmas.

The reason for the delay, he suggested, is that Ottawa can't come up with a justifiable case.

Meanwhile B.C. is still collecting fees for off shore rights, amounting to $333,000 a year from Shell Oil.

He suggested an "honorable withdrawal" by Ottawa.

The crowd of 50 whites cheered when the two policemen began beating Merritt.

One man carrying a walking stick attempted to break newsmen's cameras.

Rae's refusal to let the six Negroes pass left the next step up to the federal government.

'CHEST WILL SUCCEED'

Tax-Paid Charity Called Too Costly

Outgoing Community Chest president Dr. Peter Banks warned Tuesday night that a tax levy for charity would "rocket" the expense to the community.

Speaking to 200 persons at the annual meeting and award-presenting banquet of the United Appeal in the Empress Hotel, he said the Chest succeeds and will continue to succeed.

"I sincerely hope that this tremendous voluntary effort will never be replaced," The Community Chest, Dr. Banks said, is always striving towards a greater federation of charity.

A committee studying the use of funds left to the Chest by the T. S. MacPherson estate in 1962 is working on the reactivation of the Victoria Foundation, he said.

"SEEDLING MONEY"

The Foundation, incorporated in 1936 and dormant since through lack of funds, was formed to disburse money for the best charitable use.

The MacPherson fund is $28,452.23, and could be the "seedling money" for reactivation.

Dr. Banks said it could take its place with the successful Winnipeg and Vancouver Foundations as a fund into which grateful and generous citizens put capital sums of money for the benefit of all the city as well as the Chest.

The idea is still in the preliminary stages, and first big step is to seek a new working committee for the Foundation.

The 1963 United Appeal campaign, he said, was a success

although chairman John Wallace was set "an almost impossible task."

The $380,660 he was responsible for bringing into the Chest showed "a thumping 8 1/2 per cent increase over 1962."

Dr. Banks said: "I have little to fear of the future for the Chest... It is the best single way of serving the charities of our community."

5% ANNUALLY

Chairman Wallace, also retiring, predicted an annual rise in the campaign target of five per cent. Inclusion of any new agencies would add to the strain.

"I'm not prepared to say whether it is realistic, but I'm glad the Chest has its open-door policy."

Victorians, Mr. Wallace said, do not like gimmicks in a charitable appeal.

"There are no more gimmicks that can be used on the general public to 'con' them into giving," he said.

"It is possible to accept an annual increase. It is possible to accept what appears a momentous figure," he said.

"There are many areas which can and will be approached, and which can improve their giving."

MISTAKE

Mr. Wallace said he was mistaken in announcing a no-nonsense five-week campaign.

"We should have started earlier, and no definite stopping date should be announced until the goal is reached."

"Next year, we can probably raise in excess of $400,000."

Ad Executive President

OTTAWA (CP)—All elections were unanimous Tuesday as the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada chose its executive for the coming year.

The new slate follows: President—Dalton Camp, Toronto, advertising executive, succeeding Egan Chambers, Montreal.

New Salvos Hit Welfare Program

New criticism of government policy by social workers was disclosed in the legislature Tuesday.

Liberal Patrick McGeer (Vancouver-Pr. Grey) read letters from three welfare workers to back up charges of government waste.

Point Grey social worker Elizabeth Ross wrote Dr. McGeer:

"We boast of our wealth, greedy as King Midas for more. Unlike the foolish king, who retained some warmth in his heart, we shall probably celebrate with a Social Credit potlunch when our children turn to gold."

Mrs. Ross said that "the anguished call" of Prince George social worker Mrs. Bridget Moran last year was branded a political ruse to embarrass the government.

"Only total devotion to party politics would blind the government to the fact that there are people who are devoted only to God, their country and the meek and helpless who need their aid."

"The oldest trick in the book of tyrants is to slay the messenger who dares to mention bad news."

Another letter Dr. McGeer read came from Clare McAllister, now at the University of B.C., but a former official of the Canadian Welfare Council.

In Ontario, she said an untrained social worker might have a case load of 25 children.

In B.C. the load is about 300 cases, she said.

"The volume of cases per worker is such that the filling out of paper becomes a major activity."

"I am convinced that we are not at all concerned with people and their problems, but only with their pocket books, this understaffing is wasteful and costly. We stop at the sores and do not get at the underlying causes."

The third letter was from Amy Leigh, who resigned as B.C. superintendent of child welfare in 1958.

It was previously read by Opposition leader Robert Strachan, and among its charges was one that the government had cut its staff by 10 per cent at the very time more federal funds were made available for welfare.

Italy Paralyzed

ROME (UPI)—A 24-hour walkout today by a million government employees left Italy without trains, school, mail delivery or long-distance telephone service.

Does Your Memory Fail You?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. ## New help for the MISERY OF PSORIASIS

New healing preparation works 3 ways at once to help clear up the symptoms of PSORIASIS

Clinically tested. Your money back if TEGRIN does not give relief. Psoriasis can leave your skin so crusty and scaly you feel embarrassed, self-conscious, ill at ease. But now, there is new help for psoriasis sufferers—a new clinically tested healing preparation called TEGRIN.

Unique triple-action cream

TEGRIN is an efficient cream you can purchase at all drug counters. So easy and pleasant to use—even on the scalp—with no lingering medical smell or stain. And it's effective because it works three ways at once:

1. Scale removal and itch control—the use of TEGRIN helps to relieve itching promptly; scales and crust "pile-ups" are loosened and come away.
2. Healing of the skin—the soothing action of TEGRIN speeds improvement by encouraging the natural ability of the skin tissue to recover and heal itself.
3. Prevention of recurrent scales—timely re-application of TEGRIN provides a special preventive action that opposes and helps block off the formation of new scales.

Dramatic clearing reported

Before its introduction, the TEGRIN formula was subjected to exhaustive investigation. Extensive clinical tests were conducted. The results of these studies showed the TEGRIN formula to be effective in relieving psoriasis. Clinical reports dealing with the results of treatment show that the TEGRIN formula has an impressive achievement record.

The manufacturers of TEGRIN sincerely believe this is one of the most effective medications ever developed to give relief and control of psoriatic skin disturbances. If after a fair trial, the user is not satisfied with TEGRIN, the manufacturer will refund the cost of the purchase.

So why suffer from the miseries of psoriasis? For effective relief, get new TEGRIN today.

Here are the 13 spots where psoriasis most often starts:

(1) scalp	(8) back

COLUMBIA POWER PLAY

B.C. to Use 'Stored' Water

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan explained Tuesday how waters of the Columbia River will be used four times over to produce electricity.

People tend to lose sight of the overall Columbia project and think in terms only of the three dams to be built under the treaty with the U.S., he told the legislature.

He called the latest financial agreement with the Americans "a masterly stroke of business" for B.C.

U.S. PAYS SHOT

The Americans will pay the shot for storing 12,000,000 acre-feet of water behind Mica Creek dam. They will pay an extra amount to cover construction of power generators at Mica worth $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

The B.C. will build a dam at Downie which will use the water after it flows through Mica to produce a second bloc of power.

Then B.C. will build a dam at Revelstoke to catch the same water for power a third time.

Then the water will flow in the reservoir behind Arrow Lakes dam to be released to meet the terms of the treaty. A special French-designed turbine system could be installed there to produce even more power.

In addition "around the year 2000" B.C. could build another dam at Murphy Creek to generate yet more power from the Columbia.

"Bear in mind storage is one of the prime cost factors associated with the generation of electrical energy," Mr. Kiernan said.

NICE DEAL

"If you can make a deal where somebody else pays $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, all the cost of storing, then pays $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 to put some turbines in as well, you have made a very fine deal."

Hydro's Gas Deal 'Opens Frontier'

B.C. Hydro is saving money by signing a $9,000,000 contract for natural gas with Westcoast Transmission Co., Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan declared Tuesday.

He was replying to opposition critics in the legislature who charged the contract was a payoff for election support from Frank McMahon, boss of Westcoast.

"I want to make it abundantly clear that if it were not financially beneficial to B.C. Hydro, I, as a member of the board of directors, would have no part and would refuse to consent to signing such a contract," Mr. Kiernan said.

TO FORT NELSON

He said the deal not only meant savings for B.C. Hydro but also helped development of B.C.'s northern frontier by encouraging Westcoast's new gas pipeline to Fort Nelson.

The gas will be used to supply peak demands to Hydro's Burrard thermal power plant, Mr. Kiernan said.

At present Hydro uses bunker fuel — a heavy oil — for its reserves to meet peaks.

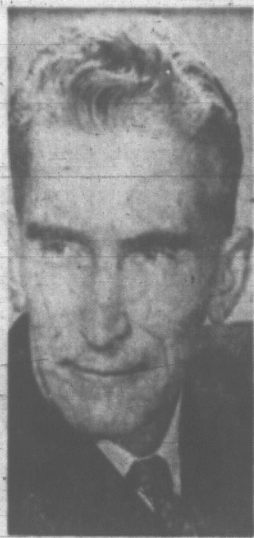

Although he said he had no figures, gas will prove cheaper.

B.C. has just about reached maximum production of existing gas resources that are easily accessible by pipeline, Mr. Kiernan said.

Now new fields must be opened. This is the aim of Westcoast's 250-mile extension to Fort Nelson, to cost between $55,000,000 and $60,000,000.

"You have to get some gas moving through the line or the interest alone will eat you up overnight," he said.

Peace Hydro Chief Market Central B.C.

The primary market for Peace River power will be right across central B.C. from Dawson Creek to Prince Rupert, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Tuesday.

Many people mistakenly believe the lower mainland will be the main market, he told the legislature.

But there is a great "frontier spirit" to be exploited in the interior he said.

"The resources there and the people who will come need only the stimulus of low cost energy to make this country take off," Mr. Kiernan said.

NEW RECREATION CHIEF TELLS HOUSE:

Victoria Area Acutely Short of Parkland

There is an acute shortage of parkland in the Victoria area, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Tuesday.

"I expect to have more to say on this later," he told the legislature.

He briefly donned his recreation hat at the end of a speech mainly devoted to his mines portfolio.

Victoria and Vancouver are the only two problem areas for park reserves, Mr. Kiernan said. He said the government has enough park reserves elsewhere to last the next five generations of British Columbia.

The acreage adds up to as much land as Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia combined, or two and a half times the size of Vancouver Island, Mr. Kiernan added.

He will probably talk more about parks during the budget debate which starts next week near Creston.

Mr. Kiernan took over recreation from Earle Westwood who was defeated in the Sept. 30 election in Nanaimo.

Mr. Kiernan also announced creation of a new wildfowl reserve at Duck Lake on the floodlands of the Kootenay River near Creston.

He said up to 70,000 waterfowl populate the area, comprising 14,000 acres.

A Mad Proposal

THE PROPOSAL TO BUILD A large provincial museum building on the summit of the low hill from which Beacon Hill Park gets its name is one of the most destructive and retrograde suggestions to afflict this community in many decades. It should be killed immediately by the combined voice of outraged citizens.

Mr. Chant no doubt had the best of intentions in proposing this idea. But he acted without any regard for the traditional feeling of Victorians for their unique and priceless park, he spoke without any appreciation of the irreplaceable heritage which Victoria treasures at Beacon Hill.

For a century Victoria has fought off commercial and other intrusions in the park, safeguarding its woodland and garden beauty from man-made constructions. For 25 years the capital city has needed better accommodation to display the wealth of museum treasures the province has accumulated. Now are we to gain the museum only at the expense of the park?

The building would destroy Beacon Hill and much of the charm of the surrounding park. There would be almost no corner of the park which would not be dominated and oppressed by the structure, and almost no point from which the view would not be spoiled by it. To top the hill with a solid mass of Contemporary Governmental architecture would be an unforgivable act of destruction. To surround it with the bare parking area which would be the next project would be an act of intolerable desecration.

Mr. Chant is quite wrong when he suggests that the day of the pedestrian is over—that Beacon Hill Park has become something just to drive through in a car. In a community which has a higher percentage of elderly residents than perhaps any other Canadian city, the unequalled promenades and views of the park are surely of prime importance. As a relatively traffic-free place for our children to play it should be preserved.

The park surely is not the only alternative to the Causeway property as a site for the museum. The government had already announced the Belleville Street location as a desirable and feasible choice. If Mr. Chant now finds this unacceptable, there are depressed areas in the city which could well be rehabilitated by construction of a museum building, there is the government precinct south of the Legislative Buildings, there are numerous acceptable sites. Why, of all places, the park?

Mr. Chant sugars the proposal with thoughts of available rock for a swimming pool, for the Causeway promenade, and so on. What he proposes to do is take one of the park's finest attractions and dump it into the Inner Harbor. This is progress?

Let's have no more of this nonsense. Keep Beacon Hill Park inviolate. Do not despoil a century-old civic asset which could not be duplicated at any cost.

Assessment, Heartbreak, Anger

A COURT OF REVISION HEARING in Nanaimo has revealed the heartbreak, anger and burning sense of injustice widely shared by property owners who have found their homes in jeopardy from present methods of evaluating holdings for tax purposes.

In certain Gulf Island cases, families have had to move away because they could not, or would not, face the confiscatory levies implied by current assessments.

Moreover some justification for their reaction to these conditions has come from the court of revision.

"The system is iniquitous," says one board member. "Home owners are being pushed out because some idiot is willing to pay $26,000 (for property of lesser value)."

"The matter of the drastic increases is regrettable," says an assessor, who adds his belief that requirements of the present law have nevertheless been fulfilled.

In extreme cases, it is stated, assessments have not merely doubled or tripled, but been multiplied 20 times.

This is a situation disclosed in a rural area. In such regions, it is sometimes argued, many comfortably fixed people have summer homes and if they can afford such luxuries, they can afford high taxes to pay for them. This, on the surface, may suggest a familiar "soak the rich" policy.

How equitable that may be in principle is a matter of debate. But in many instances, as the court hearing showed, it is not only the rich who are being soaked. It is the people of modest or small means. They are the victims of a cruel system which makes capital of the inclinations of the wealthy to the great distress of the poor.

A person able and prepared to pay an exorbitant price for a piece of rural ground automatically raises the assessment on his less financially comfortable neighbors when he buys.

The assessment is set on half the going price of real estate. If a millionaire wishes to buy a piece of waterfront that appeals to him, and he doesn't care about the price, he can set a precedent for the assessment on land owned by a small man who may have lived frugally on his country holdings for years.

And, as it has been pointed out, when mill rates are fixed, as they have been by statute, taxes in dollars jump correspondingly with the increase in assessment.

As one of the revision court members stated, this is iniquitous.

What is the government going to do about it?

So Near and Yet So Far

THE BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT of American space scientists over the failure of the Ranger VI moon rocket mission is shared to some degree by the general public which was looking forward to the expected close-up pictures of the moon's surface.

It was somewhat ironic that the whole purpose of the approximately $28 million project was cancelled out by the failure of the least costly and most routine equipment, the camera system. After five successive failures in putting Ranger rockets on the moon, the frustration of nearly achieving success only to be balked in the last few minutes was intense.

The Ranger program is one of the vital preparatory stages for the actual operation of putting a man on the moon, which the United States hopes to accomplish before the end of this decade. This part of the operation alone has so far cost $168 million without achieving the required results of photographing the moon's surface close enough to plan a controlled landing.

Since a number of possible landing spots will have to be checked over it is obvious that initial reconnaissance is going to cost many times the $168 million so far spent. Another Ranger rocket is due to be sent up later this month and this will boost the cost so far to $196 million.

It is no wonder, in view of the enormous costs of even the preliminaries to putting a man on the moon, that more and more Americans are beginning to question the usefulness of the project compared with its expense. Even for a country as wealthy as the United States the heavy and continuing diversion of money and manpower into a project which many able scientists have claimed is of dubious value has serious implications for the economy.

Most Unkindest Cut of All

IT WOULD PROBABLY BE AS well if Victoria school authorities didn't make too much of an issue over the latest male fad in hair stylings, the "Beatle" cut, which gives the wearers rather the look of an untidy floor mop.

The vogue for these foppish, effeminate hair cuts—and heaven only knows why boys, who would be insulted if anyone were to challenge their masculinity, want to wear them—is usually of short duration. To place a ban on them only gives to their wearers a totally unwarranted importance.

It might be far better to ignore them, or if that proves impossible, to confine reaction to them to the hearty guffaws which their appearance demands.

There is, of course, another aspect to student hair styles and one that comes within the venue of teachers. That is the consideration of ordinary hygiene.

One has only to look at a few of the "Beatle" mops which are seen around Victoria to realize that there are cases where school officials would be entirely within their rights to demand that the wearers apply sufficient soap and water at reasonable intervals to prevent them from looking any more repellent than necessary.

"One of the main features of the museum should be a large-scale model of the park as it was before we built the museum so that people can see for themselves what a beautiful place it was before we built a museum to . . . er . . . show the people what . . . er . . . that is . . ."

BESIDE LOVE RIVER

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

There Are People on Formosa

ON a winter night not many years ago this aged reporter (in the course of his hard journalistic duties) was sitting beside Love River in Formosa with a beautiful Chinese lady and sharing with her a kind of native grapefruit the size of a football.

The winter nights of Formosa are about as warm as a summer day here. The ladies, on average, are lovelier to look at than those of Canada. The mountains, dreaming in blue haze, are higher than the Rockies, the plains more fertile than our prairies and the local dictator Chiang Kai-shek, more remarkable than any of our Canadian politicians.

These facts are mentioned here only because Formosa is again in the news and Canadians who talk most about this strange island of hope and heartbreak have never seen it.

You might suppose from the current international debate, that Formosa was a tiny, worthless dot on the Pacific map, an unnecessary friction point in the world struggle for peace, at best a grim outpost of American power, at worst an undemocratic police state and, in any case, the historic property of mainland China.

It is all these things, I suppose, but much more.

Unofficial Inhabitants

Before we judge between Red China, France and the United States, certainly before we consider official Canadian recognition of the Peking government, we must recognize the unofficial inhabitants of Formosa.

They are not Communists or capitalists; they are not Chinese either in any political sense and few of them are dangerous to anybody. In short, they are people like us. It is as people, not as statistics or cold war weapons, that we must regard them.

FROM OTTAWA

Mr. Gordon Points to the Rainbow

MR. Walter Gordon's address in Edmonton suggests that he has reconciled himself to a period of peaceful and optimistic co-existence with the budgetary problem. Until it goes away we should look on the bright side and have more faith in the future wisdom of governments.

For worry we should substitute positive thinking, two examples of which may be found in the Edmonton speech. The first has to do with public debt charges and the second with the burden of taxation.

As the minister readily agrees, there has been a very rapid increase in public debt charges. But instead of brooding over the bleak figures, we should view them in perspective. The trick is to relate net debt to the gross national debt. When we do this we find that the debt percentage, which was 58 in 1940, is now a mere 34½. The more one thinks about this improvement, the greater is the sense of well-being.

There is one difficulty which somehow escaped Mr. Gordon's attention. This has been one of the favorite thoughts of the department of finance for many years.

Before the Bump

On June 28, 1961, Mr. Fleming, after posing the rhetorical question, "Is this country going to the bow-wow?", placed on Hansard a whole table of such percentages. His figures, indeed, were even more exhilarating than those of Mr. Gordon because they showed that net debt as a percentage of GNP had been a whopping 70.7 in 1950, and by 1961 had fallen to 34.6. Unfortunately this demonstration was followed within a year by the crisis of confidence, the run on the dollar and the austerity program.

"Some people," observed Mr. Gordon, "firmly believe that the present weight of taxation is much too high in Canada." It is a depressing thought that our governments collectively extracted from us in 1961 taxes amounting to 25.5 per cent of the gross national product. One can, however, obtain quick relief by reflecting that the percentages in the United States

Having talked with Chiang in his gaudy Japanese palace at Taipei and with his wife (who seems to have been superbly carved out of durable ivory), I am not trying to argue that they and their regime are important. Besides, they will soon be gone.

No, I am arguing merely that the people of Formosa are important and will be there, something over 12 millions of them, as long as human life lasts on this perilous planet.

The United States has solemnly guaranteed to defend them from Communist China. The Canadian government, among many others, has recognized their present government in the United Nations, knowing it to be a dictatorship under a military adventurer but no worse, indeed much better, than some dictatorships within the Commonwealth.

That being so, the United States simply will not and cannot be compelled to abandon Formosa and prove to all Asia that its pledge is no good.

Qualification

Canada is not committed militarily but it is committed morally to the independence of Formosa. Neither the United States, Canada nor any other nation on earth has the right to say that Formosa must be surrendered against its will to China.

The people of Formosa, on the other hand, have the right to decide their own future. So far they have never been given that right in the form of the ballot or even of free speech.

Their island has been invaded, through the centuries, by the Chinese, the Europeans, the Japanese and more recently by the remnants of Chiang's regime. No invader has ever thought of enfranchising the inhabitants.

What the Formosans (most of them Chinese by race and race only) think about the latest invasion no stranger can judge. But it seems incredible to me that they want to be governed by another dictatorship in Peking. Why should they?

Among them only Chiang and his emigres have ever seen China. With American help, the Formosans enjoy probably the highest living standard in Asia, next to Japan. Despite the corruption of their government, by our pure Western standards, it has produced extraordinary economic progress.

If there is no democracy in Formosa, is there any more in China? And surely we are not still naive enough to believe that there is any democracy anywhere, including the Commonwealth, outside a very few nations that have not yet perfected it by any means, even in Canada.

Moral Commitment

That Red China should be brought into the family of nations as soon as possible, to end the absurd fiction of its non-existence, I have no doubt. Nor any doubt that the United States would agree to that proposition, after some internal debate, provided that the Formosans are not turned over to the mercies of Peking, in breach of an American covenant.

There is Mr. Pearson's dilemma as he contemplates the present negotiations between Peking and Paris.

To be sure, Canada will have little effect on these great issues of naked power but if Canada is to quarrel with its American ally it should go into court on sound moral grounds and with clean hands.

They will not be clean as Mr. Pearson and Mr. Howard Green have both said repeatedly, if Canada regards Formosa as only a spot on the map, an abstract counter in the cold war and its people expendable at our convenience.

How the problem will be worked out after Chiang has gone, whether by some kind of plebiscite, a local revolution or otherwise, I don't know, and I doubt that any Canadian or American, or even the infallible de Gaulle, yet knows.

You must see Formosa for yourself, however, its rich and majestic countryside, its brawling cities and its charming people to realize that it is actually there and cannot be offered for sale, like an empty house, to anyone.

Smoke Rings

It is clear that more smokers die of lung cancer than non-smokers. It is far from clear why this is so, or how much other factors such as race, geography and occupation are responsible. Many of the statistical surveys so blandly sweep conflicting evidence under the rug that they sound more evangelical than scientific. With this type of approach one might argue that if 99.9 per cent of heavy smokers do not get lung cancer then the obvious way to avoid it is to smoke heavily. It has been known for a long time that there are lies, damned lies, and statistics.

The federal government grandly announces that it is allocating $60 million to stamp out the weed. Just what it is going to do is uncertain, but anyway it is going to do $60 million worth of it. The government could save many times the number of lives by using the money to enforce existing traffic regulations.

The provincial government gets into the act by primarily announcing that tobacco is bad. It has been mentioned more than once in the past four thousand years that alcohol is a poison, but our government continues to build its vote-getting highways with profits from its monopoly on the sale of alcohol.

Many, many times the mortality from lung cancer comes from people eating too much and getting fat. Yet so far one is not aware of any witch-hunt against food. Despite medical progress, women still die in childbirth. If we merely reverted to our state of innocence before Eve listened to the serpent this could be avoided. It would certainly resolve the awkward truth that the only sure way of dying is getting born.

Now it is proposed in authoritative circles to have cigarette packages carry the warning that the contents are dangerous. Fair enough; provided that we put the skull and crossbones on whisky bottles, require the front bumpers of motor cars to be made in the shape of a scythe, and have every box of chocolates labelled "this contains your diabetes." Or alternatively, we might just relax.

"M.D."

Exclusive Sanctity

I am pleased to see the too long delayed movement toward the Christian unity now going forward. At the same time I object, and object strongly to those good Christians, and they are numerous, who say that only those who, like themselves, believe in Jesus Christ as their Redeemer can be saved. In other words they would shut the door of God's mercy on the millions of his children, such as Buddhists, Muslims, Hindus, Taoists, Confucians, Shintolists, etc., not to mention the thousands of skeptics existing within Christendom itself.

While I cannot but admire the unselfishness and courage of the missionaries sent out to save these sinners from hell, I deplore the exclusive sanctity of those Christians who seem to hug themselves and say in Dean Swift's sarcastic lines:

We are God's chosen few
The rest of you are damned
There is no room in heaven for you
We don't want heaven crammed.

JAMES MORTON.

710 Rupert Street.

Satisfied Customer

I do not know if Clarence S. Goode is a possessing Christian or just a professing one. No Bible-loving Christian should think of using the expression such as "niggers in the woodpile."

Nearly 40 years ago I decided what I wanted. I made a choice, did not take a chance, and today I am a satisfied customer. I do have a little knowledge, which is experience gained from travel and mixing with many religious groups through the years.

As an individual that believes in freedom of thought, expression and worship, I can get on well without this 1964 talk of unity.

DAVE SADLER.

1822 Queens Avenue.

Emotionally Disturbed

Our organization is very pleased to see that attention is now focussed on the problem of the inadequacy of mental health services in this province.

This group has been endeavoring for a number of years to bring the problem to the attention of the government and to the public. Anyone who works with emotionally disturbed children knows that there are no facilities for the treatment of psychotic children in this province, and the facilities for less seriously ill children are extremely inadequate.

We can only hope that due to the debates now going on in the House, the government will make some constructive efforts to remedy the situation. We would urge parents who face the difficulties of looking after emotionally disturbed children at home, to bring their problem to the attention of their members of parliament at this time.

M. LEGGETT.

Emotionally Disturbed Children,
Victoria Branch.

"MOM? ARE YA STILL IN HERE?"

All That Real Estate

"YOU KNOW," said my acquaintance, who shall be nameless for his own protection, "I got the idea years ago when they were talking about a pitch-and-putt golf course in Beacon Hill.

"It seemed then that they were going to do something constructive with all that real estate. It had been lying there without producing a dollar since James Douglas landed on his fact-finding survey by Clover Point. Years and years some of the best property in the city was just lying dormant, waiting for somebody with a little ambition to convert it into good solid cash.

"Of course there were a few old moss-backs who kept talking about the golden broom and all its glory. Broom, mind you, broom. Ever suffer from hay-fever? And there were a lot of old ladies who used to write to your paper about the camas fields turning the open spaces blue in summer. Ever try to eat camas? The Indians used to cook up the roots, and where'd it get them?

"Well, these pitch-and-putt promoters seemed to have a good idea, on a small scale, that is. Personally I don't think they'd have made much on the deal. My project was more elaborate.

"You remember when they wanted to put a tearoom up there? You do? Sure. Well that came up at the time of the pitch-and-putters, and it looked to me as if that might be the thin edge of the wedge for my better scheme.

"I planned on waiting until the tearoom was going. The way I figured it was like this: You get this Olde-Englishe Tea Shoppe under way, with all that hokum about Victoria being the most something or other this side of Chelsea. You build on the psychology of little bit of olde Englands and ride it to a fare-thee-well. All this is color stuff, see? Tourist traps, I mean attractions, and special amenities for the local yokels.

"Okay, so this is pushed. Then I move in, gently, gently. We still feature the olde Englands line, but my investment is in a delightful old country pub—the poor man's club, the rustic inn, where an honest man, taking his walk across the fields, or through the park in this case, can drop in for a glass of ale.

"Maybe we timber the first unit Tudor-like, until we're established. Think of the promotion. Here you have the authentic atmosphere of Britain's spacious times. We'd even make our furniture from toredo-bored beachwood to create the impression of worm-eaten age. How could it miss?

"Mind, we'd have to be careful at the start. The bartender would have to be ye olde hoste sort of. Might even arrange a fox-hunt for the riding clubs led by a guy with a bugle, yorks and all that.

"You're getting the picture? All right. So we're in. Then we find we have to enlarge our premises to accommodate the crowds. Maybe put up a few neon lights to attract the public at night, lay down some blacktop over the camas for parking, and probably run a choice little snack shop close by, with a lift-up side where the operators could sell hot dogs and hamburgers to the kids.

"After that we sort of erect a trial-hostel—all in keeping with the original scheme, see, just to accommodate those people who come to enjoy the Olde Englishe atmosphere. When it's set up, we branch out a little with a trailer park, maybe on that slope wasted now on daffodils.

"If you're following me, we'd have the place pretty well taped for commercial development then. It would be too late for old Victorians to worry about what used to be. Anyhow, the old Victorians are slipping away now and in a few years there'll be more people here from places where they like to cut down trees than there are now who write letters to the editor about the Garry oaks.

"So you see why I like this museum idea in the park? It's a start, a beginning to bring all that real estate into use."

I asked my acquaintance if he had heard the saying about the man who, if he had two loves, would sell one and buy a rose. He had an answer: "Ever try to eat a rose?"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Morris K. Udall, one of Arizona's wittiest Democrats, recently was asked by a constituent to explain his position on federal spending.

He sat down and composed a waggish reply, which prudence kept him from mailing but which he nevertheless decided to share with his colleagues by putting it in the congressional record.

If, wrote Udall, his constituent was referring to "the billions of dollars wasted on outmoded naval ship yards and surplus air bases in Georgia, Texas and New York," then he was against federal spending.

But if the constituent had in mind the funds used to maintain the "Arizona defence installations so vital to our nation's security," then he was for it.

If federal spending meant "the $2 billion wasted each year in wheat and corn price supports which rob midwestern farmers of their freedoms and saddle taxpayers with outrageous costs of storage," Udall opposed it.

On the other hand, if it meant "those sound farm programs which insure our hardy Arizona cotton farmers a fair price for their fibre," he was in favor of it.

Udall continued in this vein at quite some length. It was all very amusing. Also familiar.

In fact, it sounded amazingly like the reply given by Rep. D. R. (Billy) Matthews, (Dem.-Fla.), when constituents ask for his views on whisky.

If they are speaking of the devil's brew that wrecks homes, softens the brain, causes liver malfunctions and otherwise leads to the ruin of man, Matthews is against it. But if they are speaking of the cup that cheers, that soothes jangled nerves, elevates the spirit, promotes good fellowship and otherwise makes life more pleasant, Matthews is for it.

At first, I suspected Udall of stealing Matthews' material. Investigation disclosed, however, that it didn't belong to Matthews. He got it from Rep. William L. Springer, (Rep.-Ill.), and Springer, I'm told, got it from another congressman about 10 years ago.

All of which brings up the issue of what constitutes plagiarism. My views on that are as follows:

If by plagiarists you mean those sneaky, unprincipled columnists who steal stuff from me and brazenly use it under their own bylines, I'm against it.

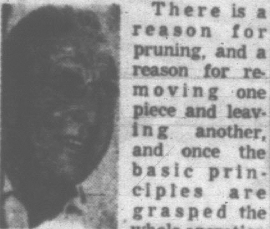

But if you mean alert, honest columnists like myself who rescue deserving bon mots that might otherwise be lost in the backwaters of literature, I'm for it 100 per cent.

Pruning Demonstrations Set

The pruning of fruit trees involves a little more than just cutting off pieces here and there, but it is not so complicated as it appears.

There is a reason for pruning, and a reason for removing one piece and leaving another, and once the basic principles are grasped the whole operation becomes as simple as pruning raspberries or turning the soil for the vegetable patch.

Fruit tree pruning is treated at length in many books. Some of these contain excellent illustrations, but the pictures never seem quite like the tree in the back garden. It is said that one picture is worth a thousand words, which none will deny, but one hour spent watching a trained pruner at work is worth a hundred pictures.

Realizing this, our local gardening groups have for many years sponsored fruit tree pruning demonstrations during the pruning month of February.

The gardens are chosen from those offered by members and the instruction and demonstration is provided by the B.C. department of agriculture.

Here is the schedule of meetings to which all interested gardeners are invited.

Saturday, Feb. 8, at 2:30 p.m.: 4368 Torquay Drive (Gordon Head). This is a large orchard of home fruits, also quince, fig, and nut trees. Sponsored by the Gordon Head Garden Club, secretary T. D. Clark, telephone 477-6718.

Through the courtesy of the Gordon Head United Church ample parking will be provided at the church parking lot.

Wednesday, Feb. 12 at 2 p.m.: 3328 Kingsley Street (Shelburne-Hillside district).

Saturday, Feb. 15 at 2 p.m.: 4259 Wilkinson Road.

Saturday, Feb. 22, at 2 p.m.: 1346 Thurlow Street (Fairfield).

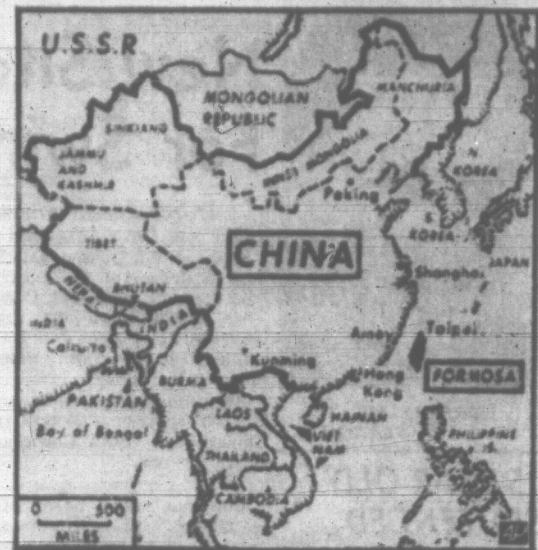

The last three are sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society, secretary G. A. Wigan, telephone 477-3265.

Alan Little, district horticulturist BCDA, will be the demonstrator at all meetings.

When attending these events it is wise to dress warmly and wear stout, low heeled shoes. The latter are suggested for your own comfort and out of respect for private lawns and soil over which you will be walking.

CHINESE MAINLAND, controlled by Communists, dwarfs tiny Formosa where Nationalist forces are in command. (AP Wirephoto.)

THEY CALL EACH OTHER 'BANDIT'

Dispute Over 'Two Chinas' Like Alice in Wonderland

With the "two Chinas" problem now spotlighted before the world again by French recognition of Communist China, an AP correspondent with long experience in Asia has prepared three articles spelling out the complexities involved. In this first of the series he delineates the contenders.

By ROY ESSOYAN

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Two Chinas as dissimilar as David and Goliath are contending for world recognition.

They will be fighting it out for a United Nations seat late this year.

The prospects for Communist China will be somewhat improved if its current diplomatic middle over relations with France is cleared up.

But Nationalist China still has a slingshot full of pellets.

Paris and Peking got off to a poor start when they announced establishment of diplomatic relations Jan. 27 without clarifying how it would affect the thorny "Two Chinas" concept, according to which both Chinas have adamantly refused to maintain relations with any government recognizing the other.

There's an Alice in Wonderland quality about the whole situation.

FACT FOR 14 YEARS

Two Chinas have been an operating fact of life on the world stage since the Chinese Communists drove Nationalist China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his battered armies off the mainland 14 years ago, and Chiang established himself on Formosa, 100 miles off the China coast.

Since then Chiang and Communist China's party boss Mao Tse-tung have each claimed to be the only true and legal representative of China. Communist China and Nationalist China operate in a vacuum as far as relations between them are concerned.

They don't talk to each other, except to call each other "bandit."

This they do periodically in the press, on the radio and over electronic loudspeakers blaring across the narrow straits separating the Chinese Communist mainland from the Nationalist offshore island of Quemoy.

Representatives of the two

Chinas flatly refuse to associate with each other, even socially, on neutral ground such as the nearby British Colony of Hong Kong.

REDS MORE FLEXIBLE?

In some slight way Peking has been more flexible in its attitude than Taipei. There have been occasional reports in Hong Kong of Chinese Communist feelers aimed at reaching a settlement with Formosa. All of these approaches apparently have been spurned by Chiang.

One reported formula, provided for an autonomous government for Formosa and honorable retirement for Chiang on condition the Nationalists severed all relations with the United States. The Chinese Communist emissary carrying his proposal never even made contact with Chiang's men.

Communist China dwarfs Formosa in size, population and military strength. Formosa's 14,000 square miles cover less than half of one per cent of China's vast area. Its population is 12,000,000 compared to the mainland's 100,000,000. And though Formosa has proportionately more men under arms—600,000—than any other country, it cannot compare with Peking's 2,600,000-man army.

Economically, Formosa is healthy, though much of its health has been pumped in by the United States. Experts say it could be a lot healthier if

Priest Leads Exile Drive To End Tyranny in Haiti

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest from Haiti is spearheading a drive in South America to raise funds or arms and equipment to outfit what he calls a Haitian liberation army.

"Violence is condemned when it is exercised against a legally constituted government," says Rev. Jean-Baptiste Georges, who identifies himself as a former minister of education under Haitian President Francois Duvalier.

"But violence against tyranny is permitted," declared the big-mannered priest who fled his native land eight months ago after taking refuge in the Dominican embassy in Port au Prince.

Father Georges claims trained Haitian exiles are grouped in three secret locations around the Caribbean awaiting the jump-off signal.

"All these men need are arms. I am here to find the money to arm them," he told reporters.

Haitian exiles refuse to spell out how many men they have or where their invasion force is based. They hint there is a single leader of the revolutionary movement, but decline to identify him.

"It wouldn't be hard for Duvalier to eliminate such a man, no matter where he is," Father Georges comments.

The priest claims the anti-Duvalier force will be in Haiti before the end of this year—and without U.S. aid.

"We are undeniably counting on the sympathy of the North American people," he said. "But logically, the United States government cannot get mixed up in an action of this type."

Father Georges, who said he broke with Duvalier in 1959 after having served 18 months as minister of education, claims there is organized resistance within Haiti but that Duvalier's measures keep opponents in check.

He said the exile movement will not seek aid from Cuba or Russia.

All That Real Estate

"YOU KNOW," said my acquaintance, who shall be nameless for his own protection. "I got the idea years ago when they were talking about a pitch-and-putt golf course in Beacon Hill."

"It seemed then that they were going to do something constructive with all that real estate. It had been lying there without producing a dollar since James Douglas landed on his fact-finding survey by Clover Point. Years and years some of the best property in the city was just lying dormant, waiting for somebody with a little ambition to convert it into good solid cash."

"Of course there were a few old moss-backs who kept talking about the golden broom and all its glory. Broom, mind you, broom. Ever suffer from hay-fever? And there were a lot of old ladies who used to write to your paper about the canas fields turning the open spaces blue in summer. Ever try to eat canas? The Indians used to cook up the roots, and where did it get them?"

"Well, these pitch-and-putt promoters seemed to have a good idea, on a small scale, that is. Personally I don't think they'd have made much on the deal. My project was more elaborate."

"You remember when they wanted to put a tearoom up there? You do? Sure. Well that came up at the time of the pitch-and-putters, and it looked to me as if that might be the thin edge of the wedge for my better scheme."

"I planned on waiting until the tearoom was going. The way I figured it was like this: You get this Olde Englishe Tea Shoppe under way, with all that hokum about Victoria being the most something or other this side of Chelsea. You build on the psychology of little bitte of olde Englands and ride it to a fare-thee-well. All this is color stuff, see? Tourist traps, I mean attractions, and special amenities for the local yokels."

"Okay, so this is pushed. Then I move in, gently, gently. We still feature the olde Englands line, but my investment is in a delightful old country pub—the poor man's club, the rustic inn, where an honest man, taking his walk about the fields, or through the park in this case, can drop in for a glass of ale."

"Maybe we timber the first unit Tudor-like, until we're established. Think of the promotion. Here you have the authentic atmosphere of Britain's spacious times. We'd even make our furniture from torredo-bored beachwood to create the impression of worm-eaten age. How could it miss?"

"Mind, we'd have to be careful at the start. The bartender would have to be ye olde hoste sort of. Might even arrange a fox-hunt for the riding clubs led by a guy with a bugle, yorks and all that."

"You're getting the picture? All right. So we're in. Then we find we have to enlarge our premises to accommodate the crowds. Maybe put up a few neon lights to attract the public at night, lay down some blacktop over the canas for parking, and probably run a choice little snack shop close by, with a lift-up side where the operators could sell hot dogs and hamburgers to the kids."

What About Car Fumes?

Smokers and drinkers found an ally in the legislature Tuesday: Esquimalt Socred Herbert Bruch.

"All of these things if used in moderation have a certain value," Mr. Bruch said.

Smoking, he added, has been credited with easing tension.

"Liquor can be a medication."

Certainly the government couldn't legislate against smoking, Mr. Bruch went on.

"We have many other things that are causing worse dangers than the latest cancer scare."

Among them: automobile fumes.

"I don't hear anyone say we should stop driving cars."

"It's a matter of using a little bit of commonsense—a little bit of moderation."

"These matters should be brought to the public attention but left to the good sense of the individual to use as he sees fit."

Mr. Bruch also had a few requests for his home riding: An Atkins Road bridge, reconstruction of Mill Bay Road, work on the Happy Valley Road and the East Sooke route, ditches, paving of the Shawnigan Lake Road.

He also asked for a liquor store at Sooke. People from Port Renfrew and Jordan River have to drive all the way to Colwood or downtown Victoria to get something to drink, he said.

Mr. Bruch advocated lower ferry fares for Vancouver Island residents.

They should get commuter tickets, he suggested.

Mr. Bruch also said that the government should revise pay rates for "middle" category civil servants.

Raises will be detailed in the budget to be presented Friday.

15-YEAR-OLD SENTENCED TO OAKALLA

NANAIMO—Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts Tuesday sentenced a 15-year-old escapee from the Brangan Lake Boys' School to two years less a day in Oakalla Prison.

He made a strong recommendation that the youth be sent to Haney Correctional Institute.

Another escapee of 16 was sentenced to 14 months in Haney, with an 18-month indeterminate sentence tacked on.

The pair admitted escaping last December, as well as theft of a truck and two break-ins near Nanaimo.

New Site Hunted For Swim Pool

DUNCAN—Rotarians will have to search for another site for a proposed $100,000 pool.

Trustee Will Dobson, who is also chairman of the Rotary pool project, told the Cowichan school board the suggested site at Pioneer Park isn't suitable because the water table is too high.

The club is prepared to pay $25,000 towards the pool if Duncan and North Cowichan share the rest.

Jack R. Long, who has been superintendent at Duncan and general supervisor of all nurseries in the province, will now devote his full time to the latter job.

Both men will live in Duncan.

Hugo Busch, formerly assistant superintendent at Green Timbers, is now superintendent at Campbell River.

Cowichan school board will go ahead with expropriation proceedings to acquire a tract of five acres of privately owned Indian land in the Cliffs Road district for an elementary school site.

Trustee John Efford said consulting engineer Russell Potter has approved the site.

Wilfred E. Berg, until recently superintendent of the British Columbia Forest Nursery at Campbell River, has been appointed superintendent of the Duncan Nursery, according to the B.C. Forest Service.

Elective surgery at King's Daughters' Hospital was booked during January as far as two weeks ahead, Miss Alberta Jennings told a hospital board meeting.

Occupancy at the hospital also continued high, she reported.

The annual meeting of the Cowichan District Hospital Association will be held Feb. 25. Terms of office of two directors, C. A. Green, North Cowichan Municipality, and R. Scott, Lake Cowichan Hospital Improvement District, expire on this date.

B.C. MAGAZINE BOOMS

Magazine proprietor Kenneth Kiernan told the legislature Tuesday he plans to push up circulation.

Talking more like a tycoon than a recreation minister, he told the House the present circulation of Beautiful B.C. is 90,000.

This year, Mr. Kiernan said, he hopes it will go up to 125,000.

The objective is 200,000 by 1965.

DRAMATIC NEW TREATMENT

City Firemen 'Massage' Heart Victims to Life

By MARGE GILROY

More than 50 per cent of the people felled by heart attacks die with hearts too young to die. Fire Chief John Abbott said, "If we can get to a patient in four minutes from the time the heart has stopped beating we now have a 50 per cent chance to save him."

This is because cardiac massage is now a regular part of the fire department's emergency program.

Urged by the medical profession the procedure was adopted by the Victoria department last fall.

"It now supersedes all other forms of resuscitation," said the chief.

External cardiac massage is less dramatic than the open chest method but if done correctly the results can be just as spectacular.

Pressure applied on the lower end of the sternum, or chest bone, simultaneously puts pressure on the heart. In many cases this pressure is sufficient stimulation to start the heart muscles pumping again.

As one fireman gives cardiac massage another supplies the patient with oxygen by means of a manually operated resuscitator.

RESUSCITATION works only if the airway is clear. Here Doris Chudleigh shows proper position of the head for mouth to mouth resuscitation on her husband, fireman Roy Chudleigh.

Cardiac massage is a simple procedure. Only two hands are required but unless they are used properly extensive damage can be done. Fractured ribs and a punctured liver could be the result.

Only firemen holding industrial first aid certificates, and trained by a member of the medical profession, are allowed to give cardiac massage. Trained firemen and an informed public is all that is needed to make the new resuscitation program effective.

Chief Abbott reports 107 persons received some form of resuscitation last year. Of these, 79 responded to treatment and 65 were heart conditions.

Assistant Chief James Allan said: "We have never lost a patient yet who was breathing when we got there."

"If only people would phone us immediately so many more lives could be saved."

"Many times we find the relatives standing in the hall ringing their hands rather than trying to do something for the patient."

"Sometimes the door is locked and we can't even get in."

In case of emergency here are the steps to follow: Phone the fire department, say it is an emergency, give your address; phone the doctor; turn on the porch light; see that the door is unlocked and return to the patient.

If the patient is not breathing, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation should be given and it is up to each individual to learn the basic principles involved. Unless the head is in the correct position and the airway clear any attempt to get air into the patient's lungs is useless.

This can be of vital importance in the case of children. "Just one puff is frequently all it requires to revive a child who has suffocated," said fireman Jack Gillies.

Electric shock, drowning, carbon-monoxide poisoning and intoxication are a few of the causes other than heart attacks which may call for emergency action.

Time is of the essence, said the chief, and the fire department is only as far away as your phone.

GRANTS AVAILABLE

Junior Colleges Pushed by Grit

The B.C. government should build junior colleges across the province with $50,000,000 worth of federal grants, Liberal Patrick McGeer proposed Tuesday. The Point Grey member told the legislature that the money is available under a quota established in Ottawa for continuation of technical-vocational school grants.

So far he contended, B.C. has "been left at the post." It is lagging far behind nearly all other provinces in accepting federal funds for vocational schools.

B.C. has taken about $20,000,000 worth of aid. It would only have to spend $18,000,000 itself to get the extra $50,000,000, he maintained.

Nearly all the subjects that would be taught at junior colleges qualify under the federal scheme, he said.

The province and municipalities would only have to pay for minor academic courses and sites.

Dr. McGeer urged the government to appoint a special commissioner to draw up local needs across the province for a string of junior colleges using the federal aid.

The scheme provides for Ottawa to pay 75 per cent of the construction cost, the provinces the rest.

But B.C., in order to save itself five per cent, had forced municipalities to raise 20 per cent, he added.

Every other province provided the full 25 per cent.

B.C. was dunning municipal taxpayers unnecessarily, he maintained.

After having obtained grants for junior colleges, the government should allow local authorities direction and control of them, he added.

"In my opinion the department of education should not be there with its bureaucratic straightjacket. Its performance to date has not been good enough."

B.C.'s educational policy was "more suited to the 19th century" than present day needs, Dr. McGeer said.

The province was missing a golden opportunity if it didn't take advantage of Ottawa's offer.

Dr. McGeer also advocated a building program for mental defective treatment.

150 YEARLY

He said the government should immediately construct 400 beds and then add at the rate of 150 a year.

He also quoted figures used last year by Dr. R. E. Adams of St. Joseph's Hospital to support a charge that B.C. is lagging behind the rest of Canada and the U.S. in hospital facilities.

In some respects, B.C. hospitals can only equal county charity hospitals, Dr. McGeer said.

DeMolays To Curl All Night

Up to 500 boys and girls are expected to curl the night away Feb. 15-16 as part of Oak Bay DeMolay bonspiel and installation of officers.

The event starts at 5:30 p.m. with a banquet at Uplands Golf Club, followed at 8 by the formal installation at First United Church hall, and a party from 10 to midnight.

Curling starts at 12, running through to 8 a.m. Sunday at Victoria Curling Club rink.

Breakfast will be served between 8 and 9 in the club's upper lounge, and at 10 a.m. the Shrine band will lead curlers to church.

250 VISITORS

About 250 visitors are expected, including 100 DeMolay and 100 Job's Daughters from Vancouver Island; 30 DeMolay from Vancouver; 20 from Port Angeles and some from Seattle.

About 100 Job's Daughters from Victoria betheles are also likely to attend, accompanying boys belonging to DeMolay.

Hugh Littleton will be installed as master councillor, Rich Roberts as senior councillor, Bob Wicks as junior councillor and Brenda McMillan, of Job's Bethel 2, as chapter sweetheart. Twenty other chapter officers also will be appointed.

Tree Gifts Sought For Civic Square

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren Tuesday asked citizens to donate suitable trees to the Centennial Victoria Square landscaping project.

Following council's decision to purchase equipment making it possible to transplant large trees, Mr. Warren is seeking particularly fine or interesting specimens of dogwoods already growing in a garden; purple leaf flowering plum; large Japanese maple; red oak; birch; deodara cedar; and Japanese cherry.

He said the trees should be six inches in trunk diameter. "We're looking for adolescent trees," he said. "It should be at the stage where the tree has a lot of vigor but hasn't quite reached maturity."

Several trees already have been offered by citizens but most were not suitable for the landscaping plan.

Money to Spend

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American businessman with $100,000,000 to put to work has taken up residence here, says Edward Benson, president of the Vancouver board of trade. The unnamed multimillionaire had looked all over the world for a place to invest his money, Mr. Benson told the Rotary Club Tuesday.

UNANIMOUS

C of C Opposes Museum in Park

Victoria Chamber of Commerce executive Tuesday joined the ranks opposing Works Minister W. N. Chant's proposal that a provincial museum be erected at the top of Beacon Hill.

A short statement that members were unanimously opposed to the suggestion was issued after the chamber executive held a meeting.

Meanwhile, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood came out in flat opposition to the proposal following a non-committal statement by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"It would be a grave mistake to put a museum at the park as it would take away even more of the park's natural beauty," he said.

The mounting criticism of Mr. Chant's idea contrasted sharply with the general approval that appeared to meet Premier Bennett's announcement last year the museum would be built on the main provincial civil service parking lot at Government and Belleville.

Libel Suits Against CBC Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — Two libel actions against the CBC, involving as defendants Douglas Fisher, NDP member of Parliament for Port Arthur, were dismissed with costs at Osgoode Hall Monday.

Ronald Gostick of Flesherton, Ont., publisher of the Canadian Intelligence Service, and Pat Walsh of Ottawa, who describes himself as a free-lance journalist in anti-Communist publications, complained of a CBC national broadcast Aug. 9 during which Mr. Fisher was interviewed.

Gostick was suing for $100,000 and Walsh was asking $125,000.

Mr. Justice Gregory T. Evans granted the CBC application to dismiss the actions as vexatious

Delayed Hangover Felt By Motorist

He was convicted in Saanich court for driving while impaired on Christmas Eve.

He told police who questioned him after an accident at Carey and Douglas that he drank a dozen beers and some rum and gin at an office party. Paul was remanded until Feb. 11 for a probation report on his licence and sentence.

Nobody Volunteers For C.D. Training

Volunteers for civil defence courses are still needed in Oak Bay for communications, auxiliary firefighting, welfare service and first aid training. No registrations have been made for the firefighting course given by Chief Bill Pearson.

The chief reports that at least eight volunteers are needed to make it worthwhile giving the course, which includes ladder and hose drill and the use of pumps, extinguishers, breathing apparatus and smoke masks.

There have been no auxiliary firefighters trained in Oak Bay since the Second World War. Anyone interested should phone EV 5-2297.

Communications training which includes the use of radio-telephone equipment is being given by Duncan McPhail in communications headquarters, the police hall basement.

Since evacuation headquarters for Vancouver Island is in Duncan direct communication is established between there and Oak Bay. A number of men and women have already been trained in the municipality but more are needed.

Basic St. John First Aid course will be given by Mrs. Violet Stanyer starting in early March.

Training for emergency welfare service will start March 3. It will include all emergency procedures that should be taken immediately following any disaster such as an earthquake or fire.

The advance rescue course is presently underway with 15 volunteers. There is still room for more. For further information phone EV 5-8711.

Police Waging Own Contest At Innsbruck

(Times News Services)

INNSBRUCK, Austria—Something of a side competition is developing at the Winter Olympics here. It's a contest pitting the police on one side and spectators, press and competitors on the other.

The police say some of Innsbruck's Olympic visitors are just too excited.

Many visitors think the police are just too tough. Hardly a medal award ceremony comes off without a certain amount of scuffling.

Matters came close to a free-for-all at the Olympic ice rink Monday night as France's Gotschels and Jean Saubert of the United States received their medals for the women's giant slalom.

At one point, a phalanx of guards drove a wedge between the photographers and the Gotschels, Christine and Marielle. Christine won the slalom Saturday and Marielle was second. On Monday Marielle won the giant slalom, while Christine and Jean Saubert tied for second.

The guards were told to permit pictures of the giant slalom medal ceremony. They did.

But when the photographers tried to get the girls to one side to take pictures of them wearing both their giant slalom and slalom medals, the guards pushed everyone off the ice. The second photography session was something not on the program.

Many Olympic visitors feel that the Austrians have tried too hard to organize the Games, and have overorganized without leaving room for flexibility.

Dr. Rudolf Junger, chief of the Innsbruck police, said Monday night that his police "have been instructed time and again to be as patient as possible, and to attempt to overcome the language barrier with visitors."

Junger says there are other problems too. For one thing, he says, some alleged newspapermen and officials have not hesitated to sell their tickets on the black market, making things tougher for legitimate spectators and the working press.

The Canadian lapel pin seems to be the most sought after of all Olympic badges.

Austrian soldiers who guard doors at the ice stadium and the press centre are especially anxious to get one.

One Canadian newspaperman was chased down a corridor by five soldiers eager to swap something for his badge.

The popularity of the Canadian pin is believed to have arisen from frequent visits here by Canadian hockey players.

The Canada pin is a small green, brown and red maple leaf with "Canada" written across it.

Americans make it a point to watch the victory ceremonies when members of the U.S. team get medals.

That doesn't give them much to do, so they spend their spare time marking up their own Olympic awards.

Here is a partial list of winners:

Toughest Ski Pants—Liv Jagge of Norway, the outstanding slalom winner in speed skating. Her blonde hair looks as if she had a bad permanent a very long time ago.

Prettiest Hair Style—Barbi Henneberger of Germany, who skis with two little pigtails sticking out from under her knitted cap.

Unprettiest Hair Style—Lidia Skoblikova, the four gold medal winner in speed skating. Her blonde hair looks as if she had a bad permanent a very long time ago.

Best Protest Lodger—Bob Beattie, the American ski coach. He has protested the seedings in the downhill, giant slalom and slalom, the Austrians walking down the giant slalom course before the race, and the pronunciation of his name. It's Bee-at-tee, he says.

Outstanding Mother of Three—Doreen Ryan of Edmonton, whose best finish was 10th in the 500 metres speed skating. Twice she drew Mrs. Skoblikova as a skating partner. After watching the Russian girl's back for a dozen laps, "I got to wondering what a mother of three children was doing out there."

Most Thrilling Finish—Sami Beyroun of Lebanon, in the men's giant slalom. Starting as No. 96, Sami nosed out No. 97, a fellow from Iceland, by four feet at the wire. However, No. 97 had started a full minute behind and Sami wound up last. This was an improvement over the downhill, where he gave up.

Stampeders Revamp That Irsome Extra

CALGARY (CP)—The time to pay the surcharge, $10 surcharge Calgary football fans have been obliged to pay for Grey Cup tickets will be revamped for 1964.

Calgary Stampeders president George McMahon announced at the club's annual meeting that the surcharge, a source of considerable pique to local fans, would be dropped for those actually attending the game. Fans will contribute to the game. At the meeting, coach Bobby Dobbs revealed he has signed nine new imports including four halfbacks, two ends, two tackles and a linebacker. The club's 1963 board of directors was returned to office.

GAMES' GATE TOTALS MOVE AT RECORD PACE

INNSBRUCK, Austria (Reuters)—More than 500,000 persons have watched the first six days of the Winter Olympic Games.

By the time the 12-day games end Sunday, it is estimated that more than 1,000,000 persons will have seen the 34 events, breaking all records for a Winter Olympiad.

The figure-skating competitions in the ice stadium have attracted the biggest crowds so far, with an attendance figure of 190,000 for the first six days. The Alpine ski events in the Lizum Valley have been watched by 180,000.

AT CFL PARLEY

Closer Grid Ties Likely Objective

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian Football League officials are expected to seek closer ties between the Eastern and Western conferences when their annual meeting opens here Thursday.

Unity appears necessary if the league is to compete with the richer National and American leagues for United States college players. Although the CFL came into being in 1959, the conferences retain certain autonomies such as television revenues, drafting rights and playoff systems.

To capture a fair share of the football graduates, CFL leaders may select an ally. Such agreement could be difficult unless the CFL works as a single entity.

The NFL is reported willing to enter a player agreement with CFL clubs.

The CFL is also slated to redefine a Canadian player. A move to limit the number of naturalized Americans on a club roster—now classified as Canadians for football purposes—has been suggested.

Club rosters now are limited to 15 imports after the third game. Naturalized Canadians are not included in this total.

Another classification problem is the Canadian who is raised and trained in the U.S.

MAY TRIM ROSTERS

Also to be studied is a plan to trim rosters to 33 players, including 15 imports, two days before the first league game. Clubs now are allowed 34 players, including 16 Americans, until the fourth game.

A uniform playoff system will be discussed. The four Eastern Conference teams now employ a sudden-death semi-final between the second and third clubs with the winner advancing.

The 1964 league schedule for both conferences, the propriety of B.C. Lions sharing the spoils of a first-place finish and WFC championship with players and others on its staff, a possible American television contract involving CFL league as well as playoff games, a WFC television contract and trade talks between the various clubs.

Canadian Bobsledders 'This Close' to Gold

Washout of Final Runs Means We're Home Free

INNSBRUCK, Austria (CP)—Canada's four-man crew took the lead after two heats in the Olympic bobsled championships today and were in a position to win the gold medal if officials should cancel the remaining two runs Thursday and Friday on the badly chopped-up course at nearby Igls.

It was Canada's best showing in seven days of competition except for the bronze-medal performances in the pairs and women's figure skating, and an amazing one at that.

Canada doesn't have a bobsled of its own, and the Canadians were competing in Olympic four-man competition for the first time.

Bobsledders, including the Canadians, had complained bitterly over the dangerous conditions of the course, turned to slush by warm weather and heated runners.

The course was quick and hard for the first of today's two runs, but began to deteriorate as the day wore on.

HUNG ON PRECARIOUSLY

Despite their sensational showing, winning the first heat and placing second in the second, the Canadians were far from happy with the track conditions.

The Canadian crew of Vic Emery, his brother John, a Toronto plastic surgeon, Peter Kirby of St. Jovite, Que., and Doug Anakin of Montreal held a lead of 69-100th of a second with an aggregate time of two minutes, 6.81 seconds.

Olympic bobsled officials said that if the third and fourth runs cannot be held because the course is not in shape the gold medal will go to the team leading the aggregate times after the first two heats.

The Canadian sled hung on precariously at one curve during the second run but managed to steer clear of the walls for a clocking of 1:03.82 after chalking up a course record time of 1:02.99 in the first heat.

Italy's No. 2 sled, piloted by Eugenio Monti, eight-time world champion, was second with a total of 2:07.50.

Scandinavians and Russians swept all the honors in Nordic skiing and speedskating today, and an Austrian team took the double luge (toboggan) championship.

A Norwegian speed skating trio led by Knut Johannesson, 30, an Oslo salesman, swept the men's 5,000-metre (3¼-mile) championship in a remarkable race. The first six finishers all broke the Olympic record.

Johannesson clipped more than 10 seconds off the Olympic mark of Russia's Boris Schilkov as he sped around the artificial Olympic rink in seven minutes, 38.4 seconds. Schilkov set his record of 7:48.7 in 1956.

Johannesson dethroned defending champion Victor Kosichkin of Russia who finished fourth. Norway's Per Ivar Moe and Fred Anton Maier were second and third, respectively.

Sweden's great "iron man" of Nordic skiing, Sixten Jernberg, made it a banner day for Scandinavia by winning the gold medal in the 50-kilometre (30½-mile) cross-country race in two hours, 43 minutes, 52.6 seconds.

He overtook defending champion Kaveli Hamalainen of Finland in a great stretch run over the final 10 kilometres to give Sweden its first gold medal of the Games.

Hamalainen, dog-tired, finished 16th—almost nine minutes behind the winner. Assar Roennlund gave Sweden the second-place silver medal, too, as he finished slightly more than a minute behind Jernberg in 2:44:58.2. Arto Tiainen of Finland placed third with 2:45:30.4 for the bronze award.

Canucks Dull Against Finns

(Times News Services)

INNSBRUCK, Austria—Unbeaten Canada played sloppy, uninspired hockey most of the game today but still had enough to beat outclassed Finland 6-3 for its fifth consecutive victory in the Olympic hockey tournament.

BOB FORHAN

... three goals

Bob Forhan, 27-year-old right winger from Newmarket, Ont., led an often sputtering Canadian attack with a three-goal "hat trick." Ray Cadieux of Ste. Adele, P.Q., Henry Akervall of Port Arthur, Ont., and Terry Clancy of Ottawa got the other Canadian goals.

Center Juhani Wahlstein and right wing Matti Reunanen were the Finnish scorers.

Canada led 2-1 after the first period and 5-1 at the end of two periods.

In other games today, Russia rolled to a 10-0 victory over Germany while Sweden blanked Switzerland 12-0.

Despite the easy victory over Finland, now with a 1-4 record, the Canadians again failed to impress their supporters.

So inept did they look at times that Canadian newsmen jeered and kidded them from the press box.

THAT'S OUR HISTORY

The Canadian youngsters repeatedly gave the puck away through poor passing. They also checked loosely and shot wildly most of the game.

Father David Bauer, coach of the Canadian team, said, "we played just well enough to win."

"I didn't plan it that way," he continued. "It bothers me a little, especially with those two big games against Czechoslovakia and Russia coming up, but that's been our history."

After spotting Finland a goal in the fifth minute of the game, Cadieux evened the score at 10:19 with a spin-round 10-foot backhand that caught the far corner. Clancy put the Canadians ahead to stay at 19:01 when he banged in Gary Dineen's rebound.

Forhan got two of his three goals in the middle frame after a goal by George Swarbrick had been disallowed because a Canadian was in the crease. Forhan's first goal was an unassisted effort at 2:47 when he stick-handled across the Finnish goal and fired a 10-foot back-hander to the near side. He scored again at 7:22 on a short 10-footer after being set up by Dineen.

Dineen WAS SHARP

Dineen also put Forhan in alone for this third goal at 6:12 of the third period and Forhan made a good move to pull the goalie out of position and deposit the puck in the other side.

Canadian goalie Seth Martin, still sick with the flu, complained of feeling dizzy after stopping seven shots in each of the first two periods. Ken Broderick played the final period and kicked out 13 shots, for a total of 27 on the Canadian net. Finland's Juhani Lahtinen stopped 42 of the 48 shots he faced.

No games are scheduled Thursday—and barring upset today—all four of the leaders will remain in contention for the championship until the two key games are completed Friday.

Those pit Russia against Sweden first, then Canada against Czechoslovakia, the latter to be broadcast in Canada on the CBC national radio network at 11:30 a.m.

If Canada and Russia win, the championship will be decided when these two clash Saturday—that game also to be broadcast on the CBC national radio network at 8 a.m. PST.

TV MONEY CAUSES FUSS

Pro Golfers' Demands 'Outrageous'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Professional golfers are making such "outrageous demands" that the Big Crosby tournament may not be held in 1965, Larry Crosby, tournament director, said Monday.

Crosby, speaking from his Beverly Hills headquarters, said the U.S. Professional Golfers Association has asked for "75 per cent of all television money on tournament sponsored events."

"This is worse than the Capone mob moving in," Crosby said.

Crosby said the PGA was demanding most of the profits that went to charity last month and is commanding the sponsors to step aside and allow the players themselves to run the television.

"He will turn them down flat and if they don't like it we'll pull the tournament out from under them," said Crosby.

PGA officials are to meet this weekend in Phoenix with 25 other members of the International Golf Sponsor's association to negotiate 1965 contracts.

"We are unable to do a thing until a solution is reached in Phoenix," Crosby said. "Until then we cannot negotiate with television networks or the sponsor."

"At this time everything is very much up in the air."

However, he said, "I intend to go to Arizona personally in an attempt to handle this. If they persist in taking all but 25 per cent of the television revenue I have authorization to throw in the sponge."

Crosby said the tournament is a benefit tournament and depends heavily on profits from television to support such groups as the Boy Scouts of America, Monterey Peninsula Council for Retarded Children and other associations.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

At the rate he's going, Les Szegedi could wind up as the hole-in-one champion of Canada.

He hasn't caught up to Victoria's leaders, but he's moving. Szegedi, who calls Cedar Hill home, has been golfing for less than two years. In that time he has recorded six aces, five in the past 12 months.

HAROLD HUSBAND

Retired Oak Bay pro Phil Taylor scored 14 in his career. Dr. George Bigelow has ten and Harold Husband has eight to his credit.

Szegedi, incidentally, now plays to an 11 handicap.

What appeared to be nothing more than a dream over a year ago is now a step closer to reality. That's the chance of playing host to the Commonwealth golf matches in 1967.

The RCGA, at its annual meeting during the weekend, has officially bid for the matches for Canada's centennial year.

Victoria Golf Club and Royal Montreal are in the running for the event, played last October in Australia.

The Commonwealth event would also serve as an impressive prelude to the Willingdon Cup and Canadian Amateur, being sought by Royal Colwood.

It could be a big year.

The format at the U.S. amateur championships has been changed to follow an on-the-scene qualifying and match-play pattern last used in 1946.

The new plan will be effective in the 1964 tournament at Cleveland's Canterbury Club Sept. 14-19.

This is the format: Thirty-six holes of stroke play qualifying at the scene, 18 per day, reducing the field to 64 players from 150. Four rounds of match play of 18 holes, plus 36-hole semifinals and final, packaged into four days.

The change is primarily aimed at giving all players in the original field at least two days' play. Under the existing format, an entirely match-play event with a field of 200, a total of 72 players were eliminated on the first day.

SHORT CHIPS: An invitational pro-amateur tournament will be played over four Vancouver area courses this summer.

About $1,150 of the $1,670 will go to the pros. Profits, if any, will go to the junior golf college at Chilliwack.

Rounds will be played June 14 and 18, July 12 and 19.

Harold Kerr of Marine Drive is accepting entries, and it sounds like something that Dick Munn and Bill Wakeham might be interested in.

Wakeham, reigning provincial amateur champion, took unto himself a bride. He married Marilyn Dawson Saturday.

The head pros' jobs at Uplands and Oak Bay remain in an "open" category, but the betting is both clubs will name their men before April.

Oak Bay's Bert Osborough left Saturday for England and interviews with some prospective applicants.

Second of the three-round spring medal series will be played at Oak Bay Sunday.

If Ron MacLeod's back doesn't get better before then, chances are some of the challengers will cut into his four-stroke lead.

Norm Boden, Wakeham, Claude Heggie and Roger Ross shared runner-up honors after the first round.

Munn, winner of the fall series, is seven strokes off the pace.

'Back Door' Opens For 11 Foursomes

VERNON (CP)—Eighteen rinks who made it the hard way, or the easy way—or indeed both ways—open a playoff tonight for the B.C. Interior curling championship.

The size of the double-draw knockout affair was decided here Tuesday as men were separated from boys at the B.C. Curling Association Bouspiel.

Seven previously-declared zone winners already had their berths in the playoff assured, but five of them qualified again through the bouspiel "back door."

The rest established their right to join company with the zone champions by reaching the semi-finals or quarter-finals of the bouspiel's top three events.

Looking the sharpest of the lot Monday and Tuesday here have been Buzz McGibney, West Kootenay zone winner from Trail, and George Cmolik of Kelowna. Both are undefeated and meet today in the finals of "A" event.

Besides McGibney, other zone winners to make it again through the back door were Eric Bisgrove of Kimberley, Dick Topping of Oliver, Joe McKinnon of Kamloops and Al Harris of Quesnel.

Other rinks who start in the playoff tonight: Gus Levins, zone winner from Kitimat; Henry Arthur, zone winner for the Yukon from Whitehorse; Reg Stone of Trail; Bob McCaugherty of Kelowna; Lionel Stokes of Whitehorse; Garry Coughlin of Oliver and Prince George; Bill Croft of Summerland; Sam Gould of Greenwood; Ray Lyon of Trail; Joe Mullen of Armstrong.

The "A" event semi-finals provided the most thrilling curling of the day Tuesday. McGibney defeated his old skip and seven-time provincial champ, Reg Stone, by a close 9-7 count and Cmolik scored three coming home to nip Kelowna's McCaugherty 9-8.

Friday's four games will start at 5, 6, 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday's starting times are 11 a.m., 12, 2, 3, 5, 6 and (championship final) 7:30 p.m.

Hooley Nabs Legion Spot

Seniors singled out the prize-winners in all four events at their annual bouspiel Wednesday, but the big winners on Victoria Curling Club ice were four Legion curlers from Esquimalt.

Gordon Hooley's Esquimalt rink advanced to the Legion's provincial final, coming from behind to nip Trafalgar Branch entry skipped by Jack Dickout, 8-5.

Victory gave Hooley the South Island championship. The bespectacled veteran is backed by Len Toby, Paul Jeanott and Jim Sawyer.

The favored Dickout rink, which also included Bob McIntosh, O. J. Powell and Pete McGinnis, fell into a deep hole when Hooley "stole" two on the ninth end to take a 7-5 lead coming home.

SENIORS FINISH

The seniors' bouspiel reaches a climax with finals this afternoon. Tuesday's play brought out finalists in two events and semi-finalists in the other pair.

Two Victoria rinks set the pace in "A" event. Unbeaten as they headed for this afternoon's meeting were Abe Libby and Archie Jeffery. Libby downed Chilliwack's Guy Philip in one semi-final while Jeffery's quartet ousted A. H. Davidson of Nanose Bay.

Visitors reached the "B" final. Duncan's Bob McLean stepped in with a decision over Charlie Hoogson of the host club while Norm Coulter of Ladner picked up the other final berth by defeating Vancouver's H. MacDonald.

WHITE ROCK BID

White Rock's Jack Graham and local crews skipped by Harvey Lutz, Pete McIntyre and Ewart Betmes picked off berths in the "C" semifinals. The semis were to be played this morning.

Another White Rock entry also joined three Victoria foursomes in the fourth of the "D" event. The "outsider" is J. Humphrey's rink. Completing the fourth of the final event are Cec Ashton, Gwilym Evans and Max Zabel.

First rocks were to be fired this morning in the bouspiel proper. Victoria's annual men's event, with a limit 64 rinks lined up, winds up Sunday with finals in all events.

1,500 Companies Await Decision

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

No fewer than 1,500 major U.S. subsidiary companies in Canada are collectively holding their breath until April, when Finance Minister Gordon announces his intentions on foreign-owned companies with less than 25 per cent of their common stock in Canadian hands.

Included are some big names in U.S. business and industry, such as:

General Motors International Business Machines Canada Safeway, Procter and Gamble Union Carbide Crown Zellerbach, Canadian General Electric, Du Pont, Goodyear Tire and Rubber, Chrysler, Socomeo-Mobil, Sheraton, National Life Assurance, Agnew-Surpass Shoes—to name just a few of the bigger ones.

STARTED PLANNING

Some of these companies, according to Business Week magazine, have already started to consider plans for selling enough stock to qualify under Mr. Gordon's rules for 25 per cent Canadian ownership. This would allow them faster write-offs on new machinery and equipment and reduce the withholding tax on dividends paid to the parent company.

Among these are Du Pont of Canada Ltd., 8.16 per cent owned by E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co.; Agnew-Surpass Shoe Stores Ltd., 97.1 per cent owned by Genesco, Inc.; and about half a dozen others.

OPPOSED

Some others, including, apparently, giant General Motors Corp., are dead-set against issuing stock in their subsidiaries to Canadians.

Others don't see the possibility of selling stock in their Canadian subsidiaries because of heavy losses in recent years and these include three out of seven U.S.-owned rubber companies as well as a number of oil companies.

One Montreal investment expert recently estimated that it would take about $3 billion for Canadians to buy the 25 per cent stake in foreign-owned business in this country that Mr. Gordon is likely to demand. It wouldn't all come at one time, but common stock offerings from the Gordon program could total as much as $500 million this year and the same in future years.

NAMED manager of central engineering for Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. is E. N. Walton, a native of Ladysmith.

New Trading Principles Possible

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, underlining the importance of international trade negotiations opening this spring, said Monday a top-flight public servant will be named soon to lead Canada's negotiating team.

"The best and most experienced man we can secure" would be appointed for the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations under GATT—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—opening at Geneva in early May.

He also told a press conference that a 112-nation United Nations trade and development conference at Geneva, starting March 23, "might turn out to be a very important meeting."

"It is obvious this conference could be a turning point, in the sense there will be an effort made by the new countries in Africa and other developing countries to influence the older trading countries in GATT toward new trading principles."

Mr. Pearson said the GATT and UN trade conferences will be discussed with British Prime Minister Douglas Home and Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler on their two-day visit here next week.

Mr. Pearson reiterated that he did not discuss uranium sales to France during his recent Paris talks with President de Gaulle.

Traffic Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—An elderly Vancouver woman was killed instantly Monday night when she stepped in front of a car on rain-slicked street.

Mrs. Anne Louise Rowan, 81, was crossing the street in front of her daughter's home.

LOCAL BRIEFS

The Victoria City Kennel Club will hold its Spring Sanction Show Friday night in the Douglas Hall.

Registration of entries will start at 6:30 and judging will begin at 7:30. Dogs will be judged in three groups: working and sporting, hounds and non-sporting and toys and terriers.

There is a special category for inexperienced handlers and dogs that have never been shown before.

The CNR Pensioners Association will meet in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Friday at 2 p.m.

The Victoria branch of the Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children will hold its annual meeting in Spencerhouse, Cook Street, on Friday at 8 p.m. The films "Feelings of Hostility" and "Feelings of Rejection" will be shown and discussed.

HMCS Oriole, the Esquimalt-based training yacht, left Monday on a 35-day cruise which will cover 2,000 miles in Pacific Coastal waters.

During the cruise, the Oriole will call at San Francisco, Monterey, Port San Luis, Catalina Island, San Diego, Newport and Santa Barbara.

Four officers and 17 other ranks, including instructors from HMCS Venture, are aboard.

A sailor who pleaded guilty to theft of eight wrenches from the department of national defence was remanded to Feb. 10 for probation report and sentence Monday.

Bruce Lambeth, HMCS Jonquiere, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court to the offence. He took the tools from a ship on which he formerly served, according to evidence.

Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff of St. Luke's Anglican Church will give the address to the annual banquet of the Victoria Branch, Dickens Fellowship, in the Dominion Hotel Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The occasion marks the 152nd anniversary of Charles Dickens' birth.

A driver who told police on the evening of Dec. 20 that "I've been drinking since 10 this morning" was fined $250 in city court Tuesday for impaired driving.

Frederick Stalker, of 4262 Springridge Crescent, also lost his licence.

He was arrested after his truck rammed a power pole at Esquimalt and Harbor Roads. On his way to the station in the police patrol wagon he told Constable Fred Acreman, "I am impaired. I've been drinking since 10 this morning."

A man who lost about $250 worth of clothing from his car a month ago didn't know until this week that it was stored in a room only a few doors away from where he lived at the city YMCA.

James W. Warren, 18, pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property when he appeared in court Tuesday.

Warren was arrested after the owner of the clothing saw him wearing some of it. The owner called police who searched Warren's room and found the rest of the articles stolen from the car at Cook and Princess on Jan. 7.

Det. Lester Clark said Warren at first told police the clothing was given him by a man he met at a Government Street dance hall. Warren was remanded to Feb. 11 for probation report and sentence.

BUSINESSMEN URGE GORDON

'Make Shift to Sales Tax'

OTTAWA (CP)—A shift in emphasis to sales taxes from income taxes was urged Tuesday by the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in a pre-budget submission to Finance Minister Gordon.

But at the same time the council asked Mr. Gordon to rescind the scheduled April 1 increase to eight per cent from four in the sales tax he applied last June on building materials and production apparatus.

Referring to anticipated U.S. congressional approval of cuts in American corporation and personal income tax this year, the council said:

"Such developments will increase the urgency for the Canadian government not only to minimize disincentives to capital investment but also to see that the incentives to expansion in Canada are at least as attractive to those in the United States."

However, the council said that Canadian policy objectives in this light are "to some degree conflicting."

"Certainly, if the United States carries through with its reductions in tax rates, we shall need to give serious consideration to similar moves in this country."

"Yet we also have the important task of getting our accounts into closer balance."

MUST CUT EXPENDITURES
"This suggests that any cuts in tax rates may have to be limited. But it also points up the vital necessity for the containment of government expenditures."

All Canadians had become aware—since the debate last summer on the Gordon budget—of the difficulties in developing practical alternatives to income taxes.

"Generally, however, the executive council believes that more study should be given to the possibility of a wider application of taxes on consumption, particularly in relation to the growing area of service expenditures."

The council also said it "rejects in the strongest possible terms" Mr. Gordon's plan to increase the withholding tax on dividends paid abroad to 20 from 15 per cent effective Jan. 1, 1965, on U.S.-owned companies that do not offer Canadians at least 25 per cent ownership. This will require renegotiation of the Canada-U.S. tax treaty and "add to the difficulties in negotiations with other countries," the council said.

"These are serious risks to incur, and create the possibility of lasting detriment to Canada's future growth."

A man who lost about $250 worth of clothing from his car a month ago didn't know until this week that it was stored in a room only a few doors away from where he lived at the city YMCA.

James W. Warren, 18, pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property when he appeared in court Tuesday.

Warren was arrested after the owner of the clothing saw him wearing some of it. The owner called police who searched Warren's room and found the rest of the articles stolen from the car at Cook and Princess on Jan. 7.

Det. Lester Clark said Warren at first told police the clothing was given him by a man he met at a Government Street dance hall. Warren was remanded to Feb. 11 for probation report and sentence.

RATEPAYERS SUPPORT OAK BAY REC CENTRE

Plans for a proposed recreation centre in Oak Bay won an overwhelming vote of approval from the Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association Tuesday night.

An announcement by Reeve Allan Cox that council decided Monday night no existing park areas will be used for the site for the centre took the ratepayers by surprise.

Another site in a non-residential area is under consideration, but the location has not been disclosed.

An estimate of $400,000 has been put forward as the amount needed to acquire the property.

Net increase in the total estimate of $865,000 would only be $185,000 as $175,000 had already been included in the total for the purchase of Firemen's Park.

Trade Surplus Jumped in '63

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian exports shot ahead 10 per cent in 1963 to produce a year-end trade surplus estimated at $412,600,000, the biggest in 11 years.

It followed surpluses of $30,000,800 in 1962 and $125,000,000 in 1961. Prior to that, Canada had a string of deficits in the 1953-60 period. The previous high surplus was $421,000,000 in 1952.

Preliminary figures issued Tuesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicated that besides the late 1963 boom in sales of grain to the Communist bloc, the year-round improvement resulted mainly from the lower external value of the Canadian dollar which was devalued to 92½ cents in U.S. funds in May, 1962.

DBS said the rise in exports to a record $6,980,000,000 was due almost entirely to an increase in real volume of shipments, up nine per cent from 1962. Average export prices rose only one per cent in the same period.

The reverse was true for imports. They rose to a record of $6,347,700,000, up 4.9 per cent from a year earlier. DBS said the gain resulted mainly from higher import prices, up by about four per cent on the average. Physical volume of imports was only one per cent higher than in 1962.

IMPORTS HIGHER

Meanwhile, DBS estimates for the fourth quarter of 1963 showed a strong surge in Canadian imports.

They were 15.5 per cent higher than in the same quarter of 1962, outstripping a corresponding rise of 14.7 per cent in exports—despite the fact that the impact of the wheat sales to Russia was felt mainly in this period.

Fourth-quarter imports from the United States were 14.1 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Key factors were higher arrivals of auto parts and engines, and a sizable gain in imports of tractors and farm equipment—probably reflecting higher farm income on the prairies. Canadian exports to the U.S. were up 4.2 per cent in the same period.

Harry Haigh Now Faces New Charge

Troubles piled up for Harry Haigh Tuesday in his feud with city authorities over allegedly operating a junkyard in high-class Rockland Avenue.

Jaunty Harry Haigh, who is never seen without his beret at a cocky angle on his head, was charged with obstructing a city building inspector.

He earlier was charged with obstructing a police officer. That charge arose out of an incident last week when a policeman accompanied building inspector Alex James to Mr. Haigh's home at 1586 Rockland.

Mr. Haigh is also charged with illegally operating a junkyard at that address.

Mr. Haigh, who is represented by lawyer Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, reserved his plea on all charges. He will appear again Feb. 11.

Rites at Sea For Former Victoria Man

Funeral services were held at sea Tuesday for John Noble, 53, a former Victoria resident who was killed in a fall aboard the cruise liner Oronsay.

Mr. Noble was on the return lap of a round the world voyage when the accident occurred. He came here from Scotland as a boy, and lived in Victoria for 47 years.

He formed the Monarch Plumbing and Heating Co. in 1947, moving to Long Beach, Calif., four years ago. He was a well-known soccer player and outdoorsman, and held office in Lodge No. 1, IOOF.

Quebec 'Pressures' Ont. Firms, Says MLA

TORONTO (UPI) — Progressive Conservative Louis Hodgson said in the legislature Tuesday that Quebec was putting pressure on Ontario firms which do business in that province to relocate in Quebec.

Hodgson member for Scarborough East, said one firm in his riding was faced with moving its manufacturing plant to Quebec because that province seems determined to give business only to firms that have 51 per cent of their holdings in Quebec.

He said the firm cannot compete for government contracts against Quebec firms because they are given a 12 per cent differential over outside competitors.

The firm, which he refused to name because this would "ruin its chances" for any further business with Quebec, has a warehouse and sales staff in Quebec.

Hodgson said the firm would have to continue with this handicap until there was a return to the "principles of fair play" because, with an investment of $2.5 million in Ontario, it could not afford to relocate in Quebec.

NEW METHODS CATCH UP

Grade 10 Math Failures To Face Summer Classes

By AB KENT

Grade 10 pupils who fail mathematics this year may have to go to summer school to become oriented with a new system of maths instruction they will face when repeating the subject next fall.

Greater Victoria school district superintendent John Gough said today the possibility of special classes in the summer is foreseen.

"A policy is being evolved," he said.

DEVELOP POLICY
"We will have to develop this policy along with a lot of others before us at this time of year. People will just have to be patient."

He spoke in reply to queries being made by parents and teachers wondering what will happen.

Under the present system, grade 10 maths is the conventional course. Next fall the program changes to an entirely different one which was introduced at the grade eight level in September, 1962.

GRADE 9 NOW
The system is now advanced to grade nine, and failures of the conventional grade nine course are being coached in remedial classes in the new maths program.

Without the extra help, or summer classes, a borderline student needing mathematics for his academic program, and who has failed his conventional year, will find himself two years behind in that subject when the new system overtakes him.

His alternative would be to drop mathematics and change his school program to the vocational stream where business mathematics or a similar elective could be taken.

POLICY CHANGE
Donald G. Macdonald, principal of Lansdowne Junior Secondary, thinks the promotional policy will have to change. The credit system of promoting is in effect in Grade X now, but it will be abandoned when the present Grade Xs pass into Grade XI.

Credits are earned by passing a subject, and gaining a minimum number of credits allows a pupil to pass to the next grade.

Grade-wide promotions are being considered instead.

GRADE-WIDE
"If we are going to have grade-wide promotions, a student should pass his constant, or compulsory subjects and make a good showing on his electives, too," Mr. Macdonald feels.

There should be no wholesale passing of entire grades, he thinks, in order to keep them ahead of the overtaking new system of maths instruction.

"We can't afford to water down our academic standards," he said.

ADJUDICATION
There likely would have to be adjudication of promotion for a borderline student, the principal said.

"Things are changing so fast—some for the good, some which don't make too much sense. But problems are created and they must be faced."

Similar problems will have to be faced in the fall in other secondary courses when grade nine literature and grade 10 language, physics 91 and Latin 91-92 also have curriculum changes.

ON TV SHOW

Ferry Man To Blow B.C.'s Horn

Premier Bennett is sending a special envoy to appear on a U.S. television show called Truth or Consequences.

The idea, he said in a press statement today, is to promote B.C.'s tourist attractions in California.

The man he has appointed to lead a select group of six to Los Angeles next month is his former executive assistant, Ronald B. Worley, who is now assistant manager of the government ferry service.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said he has not yet decided if he will send along a representative of the department's travel bureau, which normally handles tourist promotions.

Mr. Worley also will appear on a TV show called Queen for a Day.

Another show he has lined up is called First Impressions.

There will also be a presentation of a token pole on the Bob Hope show.

The trip will be from March 16 to 25.

Last year, B.C. sent two groups to promote tourism in California.

One under Mr. Worley went to Los Angeles; the other, led by Ronald F. Gadsby, of the recreation department, went to San Francisco.

Private Funeral For Cleric's Son

John Neville Biddle, son of Canon and Mrs. George Biddle of St. John's Anglican Church, died Tuesday at the age of 31.

Private funeral services will be conducted in St. John's Chapel this week by Archbishop Harold Sexton and will be followed by cremation.

Mr. Biddle is survived by three sisters, Joan Elizabeth Biddle of Langley, B.C.; Mrs. G. R. (Ann Dorothea) Lightbody of North Vancouver, and Mary Georgina Biddle of Calgary.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell me the source (and its location) of Bowker Creek? D. J. M.

A. Bowker Creek begins in the north Shelbourne area in the vicinity of Blair Avenue. Another of its sources is water from Cedar Hill Golf Course which joins it at North Dairy Road and Doncaster. The creek also drains part of University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus, it enters Oak Bay at Fort and Foul Bay Road and empties into the sea just north of Beach Drive and Shady Lane.

Q. When did Ross Bay Cemetery first come into being?

A. R. R.

A. The land for Ross Bay Cemetery was acquired by the cemetery board of Victoria in September of 1872.

Royal Oak Location For Vendor?

By FRANK RUTTER

The provincial government may approve a liquor store for Saanich—but not at the location sought by petitioners.

The attorney-general's department, it was learned today, is far from convinced that the store should be at the Town and Country Shopping Centre, a location specified in the petition.

However, it is sympathetic to the expression of opinion in the petition, signed by more than 4,000 residents, that a store is needed.

It would prefer to see the store at Royal Oak, or possibly near the intersection of Quadra and McKenzie.

Officials appear somewhat concerned that the petition is so specific about Town and Country.

They feel that would be too near the centre of Victoria, where there are already two liquor stores.

SERVE MORE
Either of the other locations mentioned would serve a wider area of Saanich municipality, yet would not conflict with residential areas.

Both areas are zoned for commercial development.

Royal Oak would be preferable, it is felt, because it would be accessible to the greatest number of Saanich people.

Town and Country is in Saanich—but only just.

HEAVILY USED
The only thing in its favor is that it is a heavily-used shopping area, but officials believe just as many Victoria people go there as Saanich residents.

The petitioners have an appointment next Monday with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

They will go with the backing of Saanich council.

BATTLE WONT
Council has appointed member Hugh Curtis to accompany the delegation, headed by Nora Lindsay.

Both Mrs. Lindsay and council believe their battle is won, but their choice of site may throw a wrench into their hopes.

The only public opposition has come from Saanich Social Credit MLA John Tisdale, but his neighbor, Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt) Tuesday night spoke in favor of a Saanich store, and tossed in a request of his own for the people of Sooke.

LIGHTNING CHESS ROBOT TESTED

It's a Ding-Dong Battle

By MARGE GILROY

The ancient game of chess caught up with the machine age Tuesday night at the Victoria Chess Club.

A light flashed, a bell rang and 30 arms automatically flew out to guard a king. It happened every 15 seconds without fail.

Controlling the play was a lightning chess robot, first of its kind to be used in Canada. It calls for quick thinking and not long deliberations.

A tournament which used to take six months to play can now be played in one evening.

Inventor Reg. R. Bennett, 3318 Whittier Street, has been working on the robot for the past two years. It consists of an electronic clock, a ding dong doorbell and whatever it takes to make a robot flash red and white at 15 second intervals.

Originally, Mr. Bennett said the bell rang ding dong for each play but the players were under such tension that they were automatically reaching for another move when the second dong rang.

Now it is regulated so there is a ding for one player and a dong for another. Soon players will be conditioned to a 15 second reflex.

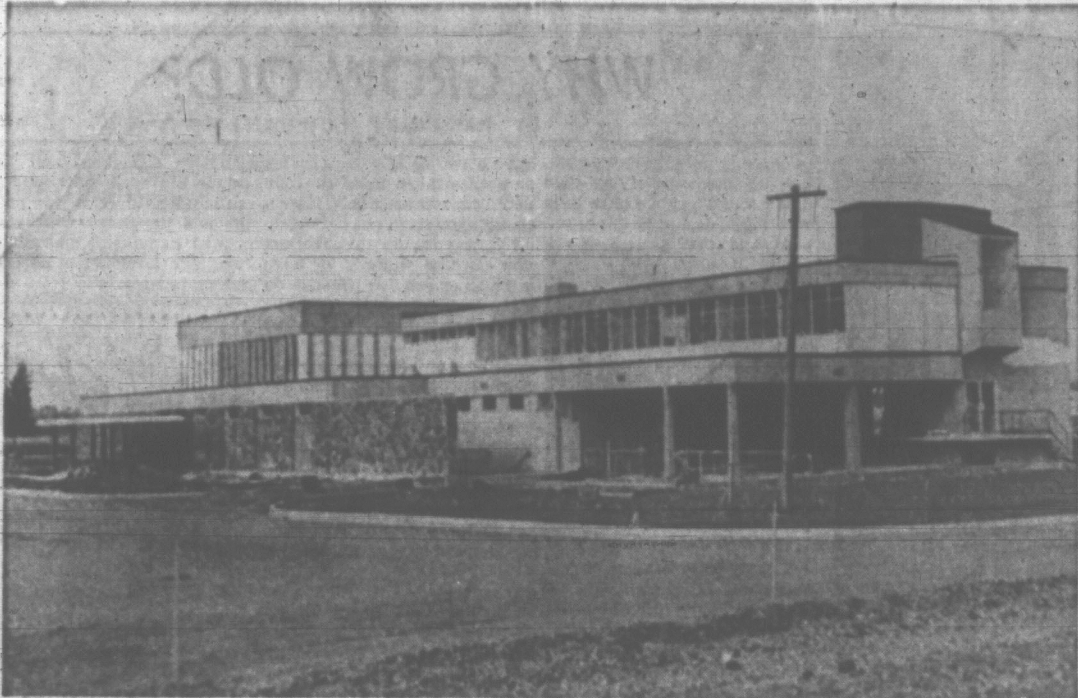

If the play is not completed in 15 seconds and the player is not in check he loses his move. The robot

CHESS HEEBIE-JEEBIES could become new chess club malady when the lightning robot watching over club director Daniel MacAdam has been in action a little longer.

Neither had the players when they sat down to play their first nervous ding dong tournament of lightning chess.

But Vancouver Island champion Orabi Sarakinas, undaunted by the flashing robot, won five straight rounds. Oldest member of the club Albert Moody came second with four rounds and A. E. Holzknecht and Allan Lane tied for third place.

NEARING COMPLETION is the new terminal building on the south side of Patricia Bay Airport. Photo shows completed exterior and the unfinished surroundings which will be graded, landscaped and provided with parking area. Building itself will be finished about the end of this month but no date for opening has been set as installation of department of transport equipment and furnishings will take some time. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

Topics of the Day

Magistrate William Ostler imposed a nine months definite sentence Tuesday on a youth who, he said, needs discipline and supervision.

Herchamjit Singh Baines, 1398 Vista Heights, also received a four months indefinite sentence, to be served at the Young Offenders' Unit.

He was earlier convicted of breaking and entering and theft from a private home. The magistrate said Baines had a bad probation record.

Victoria should try to persuade the government to locate the headquarters office of the proposed Bank of British Columbia in the capital city, Ald. A. W. Toone said Tuesday. His idea will go to city council for decision next week.

A constable on routine patrol foiled an attempted break-in early this morning at King Auto Radio, 1816 Quadra.

Constable Murray MacArthur scared the burglar away when he checked the building after noticing the front door open.

Police searched the surrounding area and picked up a suspect who was later released after questioning. The investigation is continuing.

A 62-year-old pedestrian is in fairly good condition today after being injured by a car Tuesday evening at Fort and Davie.

She is at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The Gordon Head Garden Club will meet at the home of D. R. Worsley, 4368 Torquay Drive, on Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

A. E. Littler, district horticulturalist with the provincial department of agriculture, will give a demonstration on fruit tree pruning. The demonstration will be open to the public.

The P&O Orient liner Oronsay will mark the 10th anniversary of the company's service linking B.C. with ports around the world.

She will stop off the Dallas Road waterfront at noon Saturday to pick up pilot and official boarding party, docking at Vancouver at 5 o'clock. The City of Vancouver will hold a civic luncheon for officers and crew on Sunday.

IT COST ME TEN DOLLARS TO RENT THE SLIDE PROJECTOR...

IT COST ME ANOTHER THIRTY-THREE DOLLARS TO HAVE THE SLIDES MADE UP. THAT TOTALS TO FORTY-THREE DOLLARS...

THE ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS IS MY PERSONAL FEE. SO ALL IN ALL YOU OWE ME $143.00

AND I STILL HAVE THE SAME FAULTS!

Saanich police have acquired a dog that will be used for tracking purposes.

Chief Bert Pearson said today the dog will be used on an experimental basis and will be retained if its use proves successful.

Constable James White recently completed a course at Vancouver on handling a police dog and he will be the dogmaster.

Special city council meeting has been set for Thursday afternoon to approve working drawings for the senior citizen recreation centre in Centennial Victoria Square.

Civic precinct committee recommended adoption of the design details after architect Clive Campbell outlined them at a meeting Tuesday. Building is expected to cost about $200,000.

William Hamilton, former postmaster-general of Canada, will speak to Sales and Marketing Executives of Victoria, Monday at 5:30 p.m. in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Victoria MP David Gross will be guest speaker at a meeting of Oak Bay Liberal Association Thursday at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

Victoria Branch, B.C. Government Retired Employees' Association, will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in Moose Hall, 512 Fort Street.

Contracts for an $8,068 street lighting project and a $7,045 water main extension in Oak Bay have been awarded to the following: CLM Industries, Griffin Sales Ltd., Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., E. B. Horsman and Son Ltd., Atlas Asbestos Co., and Terminal City Iron Works Ltd.

Local contractor George Farmer, 2820 Beach Drive, today was elected honorary secretary of the Canadian Construction Association at its annual meeting in Toronto.

New president is Donald H. Jupp, president of Pilkington Brothers, Canada Ltd.

Vice-presidents for British Columbia are S. W. Welsh and R. G. Saunders, both of Vancouver.

Leslie Morris, national leader of the Communist Party of Canada, will speak on the subject "Ship the Bombs Back to the U.S.A.", Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Williams Hall, 749 Broughton Street.

The bakery plant of Mc Gavin-Toastmaster Limited at 2629 Prior will be shut down March 1 and the firm will deliver bread to its Victoria customers from Vancouver by ferry.

Manager H. D. Mitchell said the economy move was taken as an alternative to raising bread prices. He said 10 to 20 per cent of the staff—between 10 and 15 employees—will have to be laid off.

A man injured in a car-truck collision Tuesday afternoon is in good condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Charles West-Jorgenson, 53, of 2005 Milton, received a deep cut on the leg and on the chin. He was in collision with a truck driven by Donald Gallia of Duncan.

The accident occurred on Burnside near Balfour.

A Port Renfrew truck owner was uninjured when his five-ton vehicle overturned on the Sooke Highway, about three miles west of Glen Lake, shortly after 11 this morning.

Sooke RCMP said B. Robertson, the owner-driver, escaped unhurt from the wreck. No information is available on the cause of the accident or damage to the truck.

The International Club will meet at the YMCA on Friday at 8 p.m. A film on Latin America will be shown.

B.C. FERRY GOES AGROUND AS ENGINES FAIL IN WIND

High winds drove the B.C. Ferry Authority's Pender Queen aground on North Pender Island about 7 p.m. Tuesday when her engines quit due to a broken fuel line.

The ferry—the former Motor Princess—had 30 passengers and four cars aboard, and was heading for Swartz Bay when the engines failed.

She was pulled free by the larger B.C. ferry Queen of Saanich, which stood by until the fuel line was cleared and the engines started.

The Pender Queen completed the trip to Swartz Bay under her own power. B.C. Ferry manager Monty Aldous said today there was no visible damage to the vessel, but a routine inspection would be made by Canada steamship inspection officials.

City Basks in Calm Between Storm Play

High winds Tuesday appear to have blown the cobwebs from Victoria's weather picture—at least temporarily and weatherman Bill Mackie puts a great deal of emphasis on the temporary aspect of pleasant conditions.

Victoria is between two disturbances, one out in the Pacific, the other bringing blizzards to the Prairies. Our protection is a massive high-pressure area, which should provide mostly sunny weather on Thursday.

LIGHT WINDS
Winds will vary from light to 15 miles per hour overnight, with temperatures varying from 25 to 32 tonight and up to 48 Thursday.

Tuesday's winds, which brought lashing rain in the morning before clearing the sky of clouds, averaged 54 miles an hour with gusts up to 73 miles per hour. Damage to communication and power systems was negligible.

Legislature Speakers

Debate on the speech from the throne will wind up in the legislature Thursday.

There will be three speakers, firing the final salvo from each party in the House.

Starting at 2 p.m. will be Liberal Harry McKay of Fernie. The New Democratic Party windup man will be Alex Macdonald of Vancouver-East. The government case will be completed by Resources Minister Ray Williston, who will speak about power development.

On Friday, Premier W. A. C. Bennett will introduce his new budget.

Man Fined $100 Following Lovers' Quarrel

A lovers' quarrel Tuesday night ended up with the man spending a night in jail.

William Evans, 1234 Richardson, went there after obstructing a policeman who tried to break up an argument he was having with his former fiancée.

He was fined $100 in court today for the offence. Afterwards he apologized and shook hands with Constable Bonar Hannay, the man who arrested him.

Cons. Hannay told the court that Evans wouldn't let the girl get out of a taxi outside the Blue Line stand, 708 Johnson, Tuesday evening.

He had a scuffle with police and had a "hostile" attitude to them. Cons. Hannay said Evans had been drinking heavily and was emotionally upset.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was easy to understand why Evans was annoyed but he didn't "assist his cause by behaving in this way."

Porcelain Show Next Week At Art Gallery

One of the largest collections of 18th century English porcelain and enamels will be shown at the Art Gallery beginning next week.

The Ann and Joseph Pearson collection will be on display daily except Mondays from Feb. 13 to March 8. It is the first time the collection has been shown publicly as a whole.

At the same time, "Landscapes From a Hundred Years" will be exhibited. Included will be paintings from private and public collections sent here from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Saskatoon.

The exhibition will go to Vancouver after its four-week showing here.

Scientific Era Brings Problems

The dropping of atomic bombs on Japan in the summer of 1945 opened up a new era in man's history, R. R. Jeffels, registrar at the University of Victoria, told the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting in the Empress Hotel, Tuesday afternoon.

"It began a renaissance of scientific learning and created amazing changes in contemporary society. The plough-share scientists, realizing that man was able to utilize the power of the sun, now envisioned a new, bright period where men would be able to concentrate on the process of self creation, of transforming themselves by the acquisition of knowledge, learning and wisdom."

Speaking on "The Triumph of the Mind That Matters," Mr. Jeffels stressed that new thinking not only resulted in upgrading of standards but also a "vast groping sense of frustration on the part of the individual, as well as on national and international levels."

He stressed, "We are now experiencing a deep-seated malaise with the individual fearful of becoming dehumanized and depersonalized in an age on the process of self creation, of transforming themselves by the acquisition of knowledge, learning and wisdom."

"Fundamentally, education is the systematic means whereby one generation transfers its fund of knowledge from one generation to another."

"But, new advances require that educators be ready to experiment to prepare students for the new demands."

Mr. Jeffels warned: "We must remember that although mechanical aids have their place in education, they can never replace the inspiration given by a teacher to a student in the classroom."

He saw the universities' role as a "mission, concerned with the constant testing of individual minds to their limits, allowing the individual to be transformed with the growth of knowledge, learning and wisdom."

"Very few of us are geniuses but we must be helped to develop our full potential. Also, universities have a responsibility to that small core of distinguished minds that have a high IQ. They must be permitted to advance in order that they are equipped to make those all-important breakthroughs, necessary for the betterment of society."

Mr. Jeffels saw danger in the modern trend toward larger universities.

"In enormous universities where the student bodies climb as high as 20,000, there is an indication that the individual may be jettisoned. Contemporary society is more and more being ruled by the IBM machines. Human beings are in danger of becoming ciphers. "Education's primary role is to cultivate what goes on inside the mind when one is alone. By it, the individual should be sensitized and transformed, carried beyond himself."

Officers—Mrs. M. Anderson was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch 91 Royal Canadian Legion, at a recent meeting. Other officers are Mrs. D. Smith, first vice-president; Mrs. G. Bertrand, second; Mrs. A. Payne, secretary; Mrs. L. Green, treasurer; and Mrs. M. Vigar, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. P. Bennett, executive committee, Mrs. O. Eden and Mrs. F. Burbury. Plans were made for a spring tea in March.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There is nothing more exciting and more gratifying than doing something we have been wanting to do, but have put off over and over again, because we dreaded paying the price for the prize we longed for. When we finally make up our mind, and succeed, it makes us much more self-confident and builds our self-respect. It makes us feel and look years younger.

That is what is happening to thousands of women who are following my Eight-week Beauty Improvement Plan. They are sticking to an eight-week program, under my direction, to see how much they can improve their appearance in that length of time.

For one day each week during this period I am bringing these readers more encouragement and information. When you reach the midway point I have a suggestion for you which I know will be helpful. It will be helpful to any reducer whether or not she is following BIP (Beauty Improvement Plan).

At this time it is smart to have a couple of your dresses or outfits taken in to fit your new measurements. Even though you have not yet reached your goal, do this. Unless you can sew yourself, or have a friend or relative who can do alterations for you, it would be expensive to have all of your clothes altered at this stage, and there would be no point in doing so, since they will have to be taken in again later on.

However at this point you should see for yourself how much better you look than when you started losing weight and you can't if your clothes are hanging on you. The visual impact will be rewarding. This also gives you an opportunity to envision what wonderful things the loss of another five or 10 pounds will do for you. Once those curves begin to come out of hiding, nothing will stop you!

Don't be ashamed of using such "crutches" to reinforce your determination should it falter. Most folks need such props. Most people have to "pep talk" themselves, whether they are trying to lose weight, become more tolerant, more forgiving or learning to bask a better cake.

If you missed my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan and would like to have the BIP kit which gives you complete directions and my unique BIP wall chart, send 25 cents (plus 15 cents for postage and handling) with your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Watch the Eyes of Guests As They See Unusual Decor

By PENNY SAVER

Penny has found that the guests she entertains take more notice of unusual table or serving decorations than they do of food.

Novelty cigarette holders will attract the attention of any guest. One Penny found are in gold tones and included an Oriental coolie with cigarette holders balanced across his shoulders. Bottom of this serves as an ash tray. Price is $3.25.

Priced at $3.50 is a Mexican boy with a holder slung over his shoulder. Another is a donkey pulling a cartful of cigarettes. Price of this is $4.95.

Also in gold tones is a miniature swan with red canape picks, shaped like feathers, forming his tail. Price is $1.95.

Luncheon guests will be delighted when you use individual trays for serving. Made of papier mache, trays are priced at 59 cents each and have coasters to match, in sets of eight, at $2.25.

And, if your luncheon guests stay for a game of bridge, let each of them keep his own score with an individual scorer. Price is $1.95 and scoring sets are complete with four small pens which have the trump suit in gold on the handle.

Trump reminders also come in handy during your card games. These little gold stands are designed with a heart, diamond, club or spade on the top and can be set on the table for the benefit of your guests. Price is $1.75 a set.

Next time you entertain at an informal gathering, add some of these novelty items as eye catchers. But first call Penny at 382-3131.

Skinner-Bruce Marriage in Langford Church

A floor-length gown of white peau de soie was worn by Carol Ann Bruce when she exchanged marriage vows with Ernest Skinner Saturday evening.

Lace inserts on front and back panels highlighted the bodice and the full skirt was slightly en train. A detachable lace train rippled from two bows at the shoulders. Her short bouffant veil of illusion net pouffed from a pillbox of applied lace roses trimmed with white beads. Deep pink roses and white freesia were in her bouquet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bruce, 3300 Whittier Avenue, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skinner, 2639 Millstream Road. Mr. Bruce gave his daughter in marriage.

Rev. D. A. Hatfield officiated at the double-ring ceremony in St. Matthew's Church, which was decorated with white carnations. Orchid and net pew markers were made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ted Cummins.

Miss Sheila Longman sang "O Perfect Love" and "My Happiness."

Deep pink taffeta and chiffon sheath dresses were choice of maid of honor Miss Vicki Wright and bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Bruce, sister of the bride, and Miss Gladys Clare, Chilliwack. Their headpieces were matching roses and veiling and they carried crescent bouquets of white carnations.

Best man was Frank Bath and ushers were Paul Skinner, brother of the groom, and Bruce Petrie.

Norman Flowerdew proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Union Reception Hall.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It Ain't Necessarily So!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our only child, who lives 2,000 miles away, is expecting her first child this summer. Today we received a letter from our daughter telling us that she had lined up a nurse for the first three months, and that her mother should not plan on flying out for the birth of the baby, but to wait until three or four months after. We were shocked and hurt as we have always had a perfect relationship with our daughter, and we love her husband as we would a son. My wife is ashamed to tell our friends that she was asked to stay away for three or four months. Can you explain the psychological reason behind our daughter's rejection of her mother this time?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Why assume that there is a "psychological reason" behind your daughter's decision, and that it is a "rejection" of her mother? Perhaps your daughter does not want to burden her mother with the hard work of caring for a new-born baby, but prefers that she come after the baby has grown a little so that she can fully enjoy her visit.

DEAR ABBY: I went with a man for five months before he admitted that he was married and had a family. I saw him only once after that to say my final goodbye. His wife found out about us and now I am afraid she is going to sue me for alienation of affections. I have some money, but I can't afford a suit of that nature. I even suspect collusion on the part of the man and his wife. They have evidence which could win for them if such is the case, I need help.

WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: You need a heap of help. The kind that only a good lawyer can provide. What are you waiting for?

TODAY'S RECIPE

ORANGE CREAM FRUIT MOLD

One 1-pound 14-ounce can fruits for salad, chilled, 1 envelope unflavored gelatine, 1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 oranges, peeled, cut into bite-size pieces, drained, 1/2 cup sliced almonds, toasted, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, 2 oranges, peeled, cut into half cartwheels.

Drain fruits for salad; reserve juice. Sprinkle gelatine on 1/2 cup chilled juice from fruits for salad. Place over low heat and stir until gelatine dissolves. In large bowl, blend cream cheese, lemon juice, mayonnaise, sugar and salt. Lightly stir in gelatine mixture, fruits for salad and bite-size orange pieces. Fold in toasted almonds and whipped cream. Spoon into a 2-quart mold; chill until firm. Unmold on chilled serving plate; garnish with orange half cartwheels. (6 to 8 servings).

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were both born in France, but are now Canadian citizens. We have a three-year-old daughter, and we are teaching her to speak French by speaking it in our home. Thus far she is speaking French as well as she does English. We felt this would be an advantage to her later on, but many of our friends have planted some doubts in our minds. They say that when she starts to learn English in school because she will confuse it with French. Could you please advise us of the validity of this viewpoint?

MRS. D.

DEAR MRS. D.: Children learn languages very easily. It is an advantage for youngsters to learn a second language while growing up, so don't be concerned about "confusing" your daughter by speaking French at home. But speak English, too, for obvious reasons.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Cary Grant's suavely silver voice tinkled across the wires from Hollywood. He'd phoned me to discuss the possibility of women presidents... he's in favor of a "Mrs. President" sometime.

My secretary, who heard him and spoke to him personally, has been a disaster area since from his wondrous tones.

The Mrs. President idea may be gaining. My BW, a deep thinker, would gladly vote for a woman... just as long as she has the Democratic nomination.

Vaughn Meader at the Blue Angel: "I'd vote for a woman... but my wife wouldn't let me."

Mrs. Phil Foster, the comedian's wife, at Danny's Hide-away: "I wouldn't trust a woman president."

Comedian Orson Bean of the cast of "Never Too Late," celebrating his 14th month at a party at Sardi's, swore to me that he lived in the White House at the age of one year. His great grandmother, he said, was a sister of President Calvin Coolidge's mother.

"My mother did 'press' for Coolidge," said Orson. "We came from Burlington, Vt. I was a Coolidge's second cousin. I'd vote for a woman president. It would be a welcome relief."

Cary Grant said in his phone call, "I wrote out something. Could you have somebody take it down?"

Could it? Barbara Bergstrom, from Clifton, N.J., was introduced over the phone. "Hello Barbara," trilled Cary... Barbara's pencil quivered in her trembling fingers.

"The power of the matriarchal figure"—that was Cary dictating—"lies deepest within us of either sex, and since women have always been the maternal guardian of civilization's survival, it occurs to me that a woman-president might well bring much needed spiritual benefits to this materialistically minded society, and in that way, peacefully benefit not only the United States but in turn all other nations, whose statesmen must of necessity meet with our Mrs. President."

No matter how many times you read it, he still says "Yes." Barbara, however, may never be able to vote for anybody, due to his call. "It was a traumatic experience," she said. "It gave me a headache. But it's all right," she murmured softly. "It'll probably go away in two or three weeks."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... All the jokers were kissing the bridegroom at the Red Bottoms-Alida Pratt Pagan wedding reception, except Hugh O'Brian: he was kissing the bridesmaids. Judy Garland's brain trust wants her remaining TV's to be simple, minus production numbers, comics, etc.... Peter Sellers, in London, is running up a $5-a-minute tab doing hour-long interviews to the U.S. for "Dr. Strangelove."

Is the twist dead? Not quite—Joey Dee attracted 35,000 in two days in Helsinki, Finland.

Veteran film producer Adolph Zukor, 91, got this advice from his doctor: "Slow down—try to act like a man of 80"... A couple of second-generation actors are up for roles in a Tarzan TV series—Pat Wayne and Jody McCrea... And now there's an album titled "Music to Help You Stop Smoking" (but it doesn't include "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" or "Two Cigarettes in the Dark")... Sal Mineo, turning 25, says kiddingly, "I feel like a freak, I've been in show business 15 years and still haven't published my life story."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: If they're gonna start a probe of crime in the suburbs, they ought to start with the penny gum machines that don't give you any gum.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Every woman likes a bargain—but hates to be told she's wearing one.

EARL'S PEARLS: Some say that even in the Stone Age, when a woman wrote down her age, she chiselled a little—Duncannon (Pa.) Record.

Work Resumes On Oak Bay Municipal Yard

Clearing of the site for the new municipal yard in Oak Bay got resumed Tuesday.

Drilling began for the second stage of the rock removal project started last year.

The new yard, located at the end of Elgin Street and directly behind Oak Bay High School, will double the storage area of the old site on Milton Street which includes several old storage sheds situated on seven 50-foot lots.

Rock removed from the site is being used for fill to enlarge the Oak Bay Marina car park where an additional two acres of land will be reclaimed.

Ask Andy

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Ken Kirkpatrick, age 11, of Peoria, Ill., for his question:

Why is gold so valuable?

The story of gold is woven into the history and prehistory of all mankind. The pharaohs were buried with golden masks, plates and other fine objects of gold. In olden Babylon, the rich wore golden head-dresses. The Celtic Druids wore wide bracelets of gold. In the Americas, goldsmiths wrought helmets and hollow statues for their priests and temples.

Gold has been treasured since the time of our cave-dwelling ancestors. Archeologists say that prehistory repeated itself in many places. Each society climbed through a New Stone Age, step by step. Its artisans first learned to shape copper, then gold, then bronze. Copper and bronze became everyday metals. But the value of gold endured through more than 6,000 years to the present—for very good reasons.

It is colored with the shiny radiance of the sun and all mankind has admired its beauty. It is durable, air cannot tarnish it and water cannot rust it. It is soft enough to be modeled into any shape, drawn into thin threads and hammered into thin sheets. But its world-wide value grew and endured for another reason. Gold is hard to find. The early man who had gold had something rare and everyone wanted it. Gold became the symbol of wealth and power, owned by kings and chieftains.

Then the Neolithics began to travel. Early men of Mesopotamia and Egypt, Crete and Cyprus met and swapped their ideas and treasures. Each society had learned to shape gold and treasured it as the most valuable item of property. It followed that any other item could be swapped for gold. Gold became the metal of trade and this custom continued.

Contain Gold

Until 30 years ago, most countries were on the gold standard and banks would give gold for their paper money. Then this system was dropped. Now we keep a store of gold for certain foreign trading and the government buys all new-found gold at $35 an ounce.

But the wonderful metal is still useful and far too handsome to be hidden. It is used to make jewelry and dentists use dabs of gold to fill cavities. Traces of gold are used to tint ruby-red glass and gossamer threads are woven into gold lace. Tissue-thin sheets of gold leaf are used for the lettering on treasured books.

The wizards of the Middle Ages failed to make gold from cheaper lead. Our atom-smashing scientists made gold from platinum, but the platinum was worth more than the gold. There is enough gold dissolved in the oceans to give everyone alive a solid gold garage. But extracting it costs more than the gold is worth. Men have worked and searched for it, robbed and killed for it—and so far the earth has yielded only perhaps 100,000 tons of gold. The handsome metal is still rare enough to remain valuable.

CHECK KEPT ON QUIET SUN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy disclosed Tuesday it has secretly launched a satellite to monitor solar X-rays and transmit the information to 15 countries, including Canada, during the period called the Years of the Quiet Sun.

The satellite may help in eventual development of a system for predicting storms on the sun which bedevil some radio communications on earth and pose a threat to manned space flight.

'Shot in Arm' on Way For City Shipyards

Victoria's ailing shipbuilding industry will get a shot in the arm soon, MP David Groos promised Tuesday.

"I am quite convinced that when Defence Minister Hellyer's White Paper is tabled, before next April, there will be shipbuilding in that program for Victoria," he said.

He had "no idea" what type of ships will be built.

The government cancelled its proposed $452,000,000 all-purpose frigate program last October.

Mr. Groos, a member of the Commons defence committee, said he is pushing for more versatile ships that could easily transport mobile equipment.

He said they would do more to "fulfill Canada's commitments to NATO."

"A frigate could transport about 200 troops to a trouble spot, but couldn't carry tanks and other heavy arms," he said.

City MP Pans Defence Debate

Intelligent debate on defence matters is pretty hard to come by in the House of Commons, Victoria's Liberal MP has decided.

David Groos told a luncheon meeting of Victoria's Kiwanis Club Tuesday the "standard of debate on defence estimates has suffered because there has been a lack of retired regular forces personnel to contribute to it."

"I think I'm the first retired regular force naval officer in the House," he said.

The defence committee is hampered because it hasn't access to classified information, he said.

Giving some impressions of his freshman year at Ottawa, the retired naval captain said "the most interesting thing for me is being a member of the defence committee."

But he complained it was nearly impossible to sit on six committees and be in the House at the same time.

"I don't think Parliament is well organized," he added.

'Farmers Being Forced off Land'

Municipalities are forcing farmers out to make way for subdivisions, the B.C. Federation of Agriculture charged Tuesday.

The federation asked the provincial government to enact legislation to protect farmers when it presented its annual brief to the cabinet.

The municipalities are acting under section 870 of the Municipal Act, the Farmers said.

This allows councils to pass bylaws requiring farmers to "eliminate or reduce the fouling or contamination of the atmosphere."

Another section allows municipalities to "prohibit the keeping of swine."

"These sections of the Municipal Act should be amended in that they are grossly unfair to the farmers," the brief said.

The brief also urges a change in the Provincial Elections Act which would save employers a lot of money.

The act says that employers must allow their workers four hours to vote without loss of pay.

The federation wants the words "without loss of pay" deleted.

It also urged the government to revise its school taxation formula.

It wants taxes levied only on farmhouses and adjacent land instead of entire farms.

Israel Jails Jew Who Aided Gestapo

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) Hirsch Barenblatt, a 47-year-old Jewish musician, was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison today for complicity in rounding up and handing to the Gestapo scores of Jewish children who were sent to death camps.

He also was sentenced to shorter terms, to run concurrently, on four other counts accusing him of complicity in delivering to the Gestapo thousands of fellow Jews in the Polish town of Bialystok. The sentence came a few hours after his conviction.

The judgment in the Tel Aviv district court found him guilty of complicity with the Nazis in assembling in August, 1942, all the Jewish inhabitants of Bialystok, about 3,000 persons, on two sports grounds where a so-called "selection" was made of those fit for work and those to be sent to death camps.

The court found that a Jewish policeman under Barenblatt's orders had prevented people in one group from moving to the other.

The judgment said that Barenblatt, who served as chief of a Jewish police force under Nazi control in Bialystok, had been aware of the fate awaiting deportees.

Son's Vote Missing, Says MLA

An MLA wants to know what happened to his son's vote last Sept. 30.

It didn't show up at Kaslo-Slocan, Randolph Harding, the New Democratic Party member told the Legislature Tuesday.

His son and wife had moved to the coast and cast an absentee ballot — presumably for father Ran, in the provincial election.

Their names are in the poll book where they voted and he had the address, he said.

The vote should have been sent by registered mail to Kaslo-Slocan to be counted there.

"I want to see these traced," he demanded.

"If they did land in my riding I want to know where they went."

This sort of thing had happened to a number of people, Mr. Harding complained.

"It's high time we did a little more checking."

He said he's getting tired of having government-appointed returning officers "who aren't doing their job."

Mr. Harding suggested amendments to the Provincial Elections Act to correct what he called such stupid mistakes.

Suspect Checked Out Long Ago

VANCOUVER (CP) — The man named by Charles Heathman as the murderer of Vernon newsboy Donald Otley has been investigated long ago, an RCMP official said Tuesday.

Staff Sgt. Frank Regan said his questioning of Heathman on this statement has revealed nothing and the renewed study of the Otley case now will switch to Vernon itself.

Heathman, twice convicted of the boy's 1960 murder and later acquitted, said last week that people in Vernon "know who did it and so do I."

QUICK START PLANNED ON LECTURE WING

Contract to build University of Victoria's new science lecture theatre adjoining the just-named Elliott science building was awarded Monday to Burns and Dutton Construction Co. Ltd.

Company vice-president H. I. Thomas of Richmond, said Tuesday construction would begin almost immediately in order to have the building ready for occupancy by the start of the new university year in September.

The time element is an important factor of the contract, stressed by the university development board and board of governors to try to accommodate over-swelling enrolment.

Burns and Dutton's bid of $408,500 was the lowest of eight tenders opened by the development board last week and confirmed by the governors Monday.

HARDING ... happy in U.S.

Who's Getting Skinned On Columbia?

Who's getting skinned — Uncle Sam or W. A. C. Bennett — on the Columbia River deal? The question was posed in the legislature Tuesday by a puzzled Randolph Harding (NDP, Kaslo-Slocan).

He said that in the U.S. everyone seemed to be happy because they were getting power for 3.5 mills per kilowatt hour. In B.C. the people are told they will sell the power for 5.3 mills.

"It just doesn't seem to jibe," Mr. Harding said.

LAND FREED

His evaluation of the deal which gives B.C. $344,400,000 in cash. The U.S. gets $1 billion worth of industrial land freed from floods and saves up to $2 billion worth in damage.

The B.C. government gave the impression it had "put old Uncle Sam on the rack and skinned him," Mr. Harding said.

"Oh no we didn't," interjected Premier Bennett.

"I believe old Uncle Sam had somebody else on the rack," Mr. Harding responded.

Mr. Harding said the original treaty had been improved by latest negotiations, but he still thought the B.C. government had made "some very grave blunders."

He said he was still opposed to the dam planned for the Arrow Lakes.

'Be Generous To Columbia Victims'

A plea for generous compensation to people who will be flooded out by the Columbia power project was made Tuesday by one of the men who represents them in the legislature.

B.C. Hydro should do everything it can to help the people involved, Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) told the House.

He bitterly attacked government supporters who went through his riding promising certain sums of money for compensation during last September's provincial election campaign.

Mr. Harding said people were told they would get $8,000 or $30,000 when there was absolutely no ground for such promises.

"Sometimes it hurts when you see old people that you know haven't a hope in the world of getting this compensation being sold a bill of goods," he protested.

Mr. Harding called for generous compensation, relocation and re-employment of people who will be affected by the Arrow Lake and Duncan Lake dams of the Columbia Treaty.

FAMILY SEDANS WITH WIRE WHEELS

Car Polishers Get Workout at Show

By LESLIE MILLIN

Family sedans are here to stay, but the phoney wire wheels with the fake knock-off hubcaps are this year's trimming — because they look sporty.

That seems to sum up the opinion of the 3,500 persons who moved steadily Tuesday through the Auto Show in the Memorial Arena.

Domestic family sedans took up most of the floor, with one or two high-priced models to give the kids something to lust for.

FEW IMPORTS

Sprinkled here and there were a few imported models — and they were mostly family sedans too.

Drawing the biggest crowds were a Thunderbird (a "total performance" name), a Cadillac (most respected name), and a Chrysler Imperial (biggest price tag — over $9,000).

The rest of the time, you could look at various models of the Big Three manufacturers' wares, a small team of Ramblers, a batch of small English sedans, and three sports cars.

Curiously enough, the sports cars weren't getting too much attention Tuesday evening, even though the MG-B had the only genuine wire wheels in the show.

The other two were a series-3 Sunbeam Alpine, and a Mini-Cooper S all rigged out like the one that surprised the yingyang out of everyone recently by winning the Monte Carlo rally outright.

Getting plenty of attention were the "total performance" Ford products.

Clean lines and interior finish were frequently commented on — along with the imitation wire wheels that on one model are such a good imitation you have to poke a finger two inches into the spokes to find the disc wheel underneath.

Biggest array was the General Motors contingent, with at least one sample of everything except the Sting Ray Corvette.

LEATHER LOOK

They tend towards divided seats and sporty appearance, and one model — the Oldsmobile — even possesses a tachometer, the only non-European show entry to carry that useful instrument.

Leather and leathery-looking upholstery is also very much "in" at this show.

The big Imperial has seats finished in something black that looks like those big leather thrones — feudal sort of.

Also on display is a tiny Renault — a quarter of the Imperial's size — complete with push-button automatic transmission, the smallest car in the show so equipped.

Sponsoring the show is the Victoria Auto Dealers' Association.

Hardest at work during the show Tuesday night were the car polishers who came out every so often to burnish the fingerprints off the cars.

FAT, PROD

Everyone seems to want to pat or prod a shiny new car.

A variety act three times daily is providing for showgoers who want something to look at other than cars.

The show runs through Saturday evening.

Press Censored

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Tanganyika has imposed censorship on all press cables and telephone calls, it was reported here Sunday. Reports reaching here said the ban, announced by Home Affairs Minister Job Lusinde, provided for telephone calls to be intercepted unless they were first authorized by an official censor.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

In come the mace, the Speaker and the clerks, and we are in session again with durable, multiple minister John Kiernan up and a lengthy session of car-banging to follow.

We will return to Mr. Kiernan later, but first a preachment to certain members who, in this matter of replies to the Throne, have been taking bit-between-teeth and galloping all round the compass.

A touch of rhetoric, gentlemen, is necessary to parliamentary debate as horse radish to roast beef; but please, let it be remembered also that brevity is the soul of wit.

Walkabout

We could have managed very well, for instance, without NDP William Hartley's excruciatingly detailed walkabout in which I verily believe we took tea with each burgher of Yale Riding.

Also, while young Liberal Dr. Patrick McGeer of Vancouver-Point Grey is one of the Legislature's best, there are those who were less than pleased to find him still holding forth when the evening sitting commenced.

Our new and yearling members would do well to study ministerial technique. With much of genuine importance to impart, the cabinet member generally manages to do so with grace... but also with a minimum of fluff-duff!

Sniff-About

Back now to our minister of mines and plenty else beside, who smells a smeller for the Queen Charlotte Islands, and hints of a pending offshore exploration rights tussle between Bennett's boys and the Feds.

Later, delving into his recreation and conservation folio, minister Kiernan came up with what may be a harmless cantaloupe but might also just prove to be a bomb.

"There are in the province," he pointed out, "11 major provincial parks with a combined area in excess of 6,000,000 acres. In some of these it will be desirable, I believe, to preserve the virgin wilderness."

Shift About?

"The average person does not seem to consider virgin wilderness as too much of an asset, however, and desires substantial improvements to his park areas."

"It would seem, therefore, we must of necessity direct our efforts to increasing the number of facilities available as developed or semi-developed parks..."

In his next breath, Mr. Kiernan admits the loggers and miners weren't always as tidy as they might have been, but assures us all this is changing.

Later, Mr. Kiernan will return to this topic. When he does, I hope he will answer a question which his Tuesday remarks must raise in the mind of every sportsman and conservationist.

Doubt About

Is Minister of Mines Kiernan by any chance casting eyes on Minister of Recreation and Conservation Kiernan's big and beautiful Strathcona Park?

I may be jumping at shadows here, and heartily hope Mr. Kiernan in his dual role will make it plain that my hunch is wrong.

Until he does, though, I suggest to those who prefer their wilderness parks unmined and unlogged, that they rouse and beware!

ONLY 35 STAND UP

Tory Rebels Beaten Down By John D.

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—John Diefenbaker Tuesday tightened his control of the Progressive Conservative party, putting down dissenting elements of the party in what appeared to be a "no contest" vote.

Of the approximately 800 voting delegates attending the Tory party's annual meeting only about 35 stood up in opposition to their leader.

DIEF DENIES COMPROMISE

OTTAWA (CP)—Conservative leader John Diefenbaker issued a statement today denying some press reports that "backroom compromise" had been proposed to him before Tuesday's open vote which endorsed his party leadership.

"That's the latest invention," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Tories Reject Tax Cut

OTTAWA — An immediate cut of five per cent in personal and corporate income taxes was opposed today by delegates to the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative party.

At the urging of former finance minister George Nowlan and former trade minister Wallace McCutcheon, delegates decided to vote in favor of deferred government tax-cut action, pending the report of the royal commission now studying taxation.

At the same time, the party rank-and-file approved an expression of condemnation and repeal of "discriminatory" Liberal taxation policies.

Both Mr. Nowlan and Sen. McCutcheon argued that the resolution urging a five per cent tax cut — plus a wide range of other tax relief measures for industry — was irresponsible because it failed to get down to "the dollars and cents of it."

Such a tax-cut proposed should not be approved, the senator said, unless it was known "if we can afford the luxury without further deficits."

Prof. G. M. Clark, an economist from the University of B.C., said the proposal would mean an increase in the federal deficit to more than $1 billion a year.

The Conservative leader was not in the Chateau Laurier ballroom, where delegates met, when the vote was taken. He made his appeal to the meeting in a speech delivered in the early afternoon, then, with his wife, left the ballroom to mingle with delegates in corridors, and to rest. He had delivered his fourth speech in as many days.

The vote was taken shortly before six p.m. after most of the afternoon had been taken up in the debate over whether the leadership confidence question should be decided by secret ballot or the traditional "stand-up-and-be-counted" vote.

DIDN'T TAKE SIDES

In his speech Mr. Diefenbaker said he would not take sides on the question of how the vote should be taken. There was no debate on the resolution expressing confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership. All possibility of debate was choked off when Yukon MP Eric Neilson, supported by Toronto Tory Hal Jackman, moved that the confidence motion "be now put."

TUNIS (UPI)—United Nations Secretary General Thant today broke off his African tour and is returning to New York to deal with the Cyprus crisis. It was announced today.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot president, inspected damage to the embassy and denounced the bombing as the work of "heinous criminals."

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek-Cypriot opposition to an American-British plan to assign a NATO peace force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

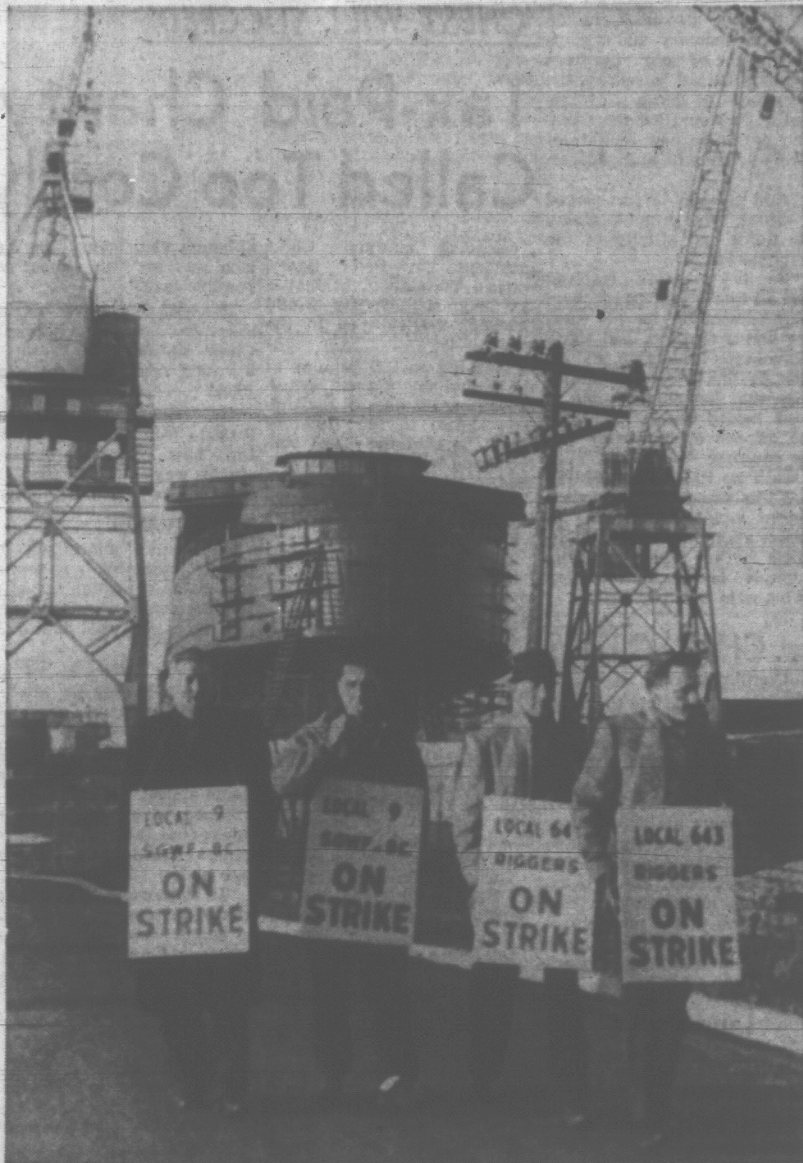

REJECTS NATO FORCE
Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answerable to the United Nations Security Council. The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would give the Soviet Union a chance to interfere.

France also dimmed the plan's chances of success with an announcement today that it would take no part in the force. The local situation improved, however, as the British Army announced that 50 Greek-Cypriot hostages had been released by the Turkish-Cypriots.

An army spokesman said British troops obtained the release of about 50 Greek-Cypriot students and a doctor who disappeared Tuesday while travelling on buses on the island.

Bombs also were exploded Tuesday night at a Greek-owned hotel where Britons were staying. No one was injured.

WORK STOPPED today on new B.C. ferry which looms in background of Victoria Machinery Depot picket line. Both VMD and Yarrow's shipyards here were shut down by strikers demanding pay increases higher than those recommended by a conciliation board. Talks were under way to try and settle the dispute.

SIX NEGROES TURNED AWAY

Photographer Beaten As School Kept White

(Times News Service)

Gale Lashes Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Police said today at least 20 large windows were smashed in the downtown area by high over night winds that gusted as high as 70 miles an hour.

Street corner mail boxes were blown over, and some traffic lights strung over intersections were wrenched from support cables. One light crashed onto the cab roof of a parked truck.

NOTASULGA, Ala.—Mayor Jack Rea today turned away six Negro students ordered admitted to an all-white school here, a white photographer was beaten into submission by police and an angry crowd of whites struck another newsmen.

Rea's action set the stage for the first major school integration crisis to confront President Johnson.

Six other Negro students entered the previously all-white school at nearby Shorter without incident but half the white student body boycotted classes.

The violence at Notasulga, population 1,200, broke out when the bus bringing the six Negro students appeared. It was stopped and two local officers entered the vehicle.

A young white man, Vernon Merritt III of Birmingham, Ala., was dragged kicking and yelling from the bus and beaten with clubs and a walking stick.

Merritt, a photographer, apparently had accompanied the Negroes on the ride to the school for their first day of classes.

Rea stood waiting in the schoolhouse door flanked by Macon county policemen.

Acting as fire and safety inspector under a new ordinance, he told the Negro students that he had determined after an investigation that the maximum capacity of Notasulga High School was the number now enrolled. He said that no additional students of any race could be admitted without violating the law.

The average daily attendance of Notasulga High is 174. Merritt was dragged from

Mainland Unions Report for Work

Three Victoria shipyard union leaders were attending strike-settlement talks in Vancouver today amid growing disunity and confusion among workers.

About 1,400 employees at Yarrow's Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot went out at 7 a.m. today, while 600 workers at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver responded to a provincial labor department plea to work at least until strike-settlement talks could be held.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands, ordered to Vancouver by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, met at 10 a.m. with union and management representatives.

'ENOUGH TIME'

Metal Trades Council president James McConachy, leading the Victoria delegation of three to the Vancouver meeting, said the unions here decided to go ahead and strike because "we feel there has been enough time to get together on this thing."

Two recent meetings were held in Vancouver without Victoria representation.

Although Burrard union men postponed their strike, Mr. McConachy claimed the labor department approach came "too late" to halt the "strike machinery in motion."

At VMD this morning, placarded pickets shivered as they moved slowly around the chilly Dallas Road frontage of the yard.

Some comments were directed against Mr. McConachy and his strike-settlement trip ("the men voted on this—what's he got to do with it now?")

MEN BITTER

More bitter talk was against Burrard workers, whose 600 non-strikers seemed to bear out Tuesday's comment by Burrard general manager David Wallace:

"Different unions have different objections. We can't do anything until they all get together and think and act alike."

When a commission arrived at VMD shortly after 7 a.m., he called: "Get these gates open—the strike doesn't start until 11 a.m."

He was ignored.

At Yarrow's, 50 office workers not involved in the dispute were advised to decide for themselves whether to support yard workers.

All honored the strike and did not report for work. VMD office staff worked as usual.

Still unfinished in the idle VMD yard is the near-completed B.C. ferry "Queen of Nanaimo," the soon-to-be-launched "Queen of New Westminster," and two barges.

JURY

Hoffa Boasted Of 'Fix'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—A teamsters' official testified today that James Hoffa once boasted he had fixed the jury in his 1962 conspiracy in Nashville.

The government witness said Hoffa told him, "I have got the colored male juror in my hip pocket."

The testimony by Edward Partin, officer of a Baton Rouge, La., teamsters' local, was the first to link Hoffa directly to charges that he tried to bribe and influence jurors in the conspiracy trial.

Partin also said Hoffa told him "he would pay $15,000 to $20,000 to get to the jury." He said the proposal was made in a Nashville hotel room while the trial was in progress.

'BEST BET'

Partin quoted the teamster chief as saying: "It looks like our best bet is a hung jury. That's the same as acquittal, because they'd never try me again."

There was only one Negro juror in Hoffa's conspiracy trial. He was Gratlin Fields, a retired railroad worker. Fields was one of three panel members discharged before the case was declared a mistrial.

Partin appeared calm when taking the witness stand today over strong defence objections that he was a "government informer" planted in their midst. He testified with his hands folded neatly in his lap.

Hoffa, to the contrary, stared intently at the witness and repeatedly turned to scribble notes for his defence lawyers.

Woman Overboard

NEW YORK (CP)—The Empress of Canada today reported a 35-year-old woman overboard off the New Jersey coast about 160 miles south of New York. Her identity was not immediately available.

A Legal Basis For Dull Sermons?

TORONTO (CP)—Twelve Metropolitan Toronto ministers have decided to seek permission from the provincial government to use hypnosis in their parishioners.

The clergymen—four United Church, four Anglican, three Baptist and one Presbyterian—will meet Feb. 18 to begin a campaign to have the right to practise hypnosis extended to "qualified" clergymen.

Rev. Lindsay King of suburban Scarborough said the group will either send a brief or a delegation to Health Minister Dymond requesting the change. The ministers attended training sessions in pastoral hyptism last week under Rev. Joseph Wittkofski, a canon in the United States Protestant Episcopal Church and director of pastoral training at Pittsburgh's Brad Institute.

"Hypnosis was made by God and should be used as part of deeply meaningful spiritual exercises," Dr. Wittkofski said. But he warned: "Hypnosis is neither a toy nor a magic cure-all."

Dr. Wittkofski said that during the last 20 years he has used hypnosis in pastoral counselling and helped hundreds with problems ranging from overweight, alcoholism, insomnia and fear of dentists.

SMELTER PLAN PUSHED

Fuel Source Holds Key To Boom on Charlottes

By FRANK BUTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A huge new mining industry may rise on B.C.'s isolated Queen Charlotte Islands, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan disclosed Tuesday.

He told the legislature the government is trying to stimulate location of a smelter and refinery for iron ore deposits on the islands.

The problem to be overcome, he said, is finding a source of fuel.

"We are investigating several possibilities," he said.

The Queen Charlottes have about 30,000,000 tons of iron ore reserves, three quarters of the total reserves on the coast, Mr. Kiernan said.

Given an economic source of fuel in or around the islands, they offer a most practical location for a substantial steel industry, he said.

Two possibilities being investigated are coal deposits on the islands themselves, and imported liquid methane gas, he said.

Liquid gas may prove the best type of fuel for the job and in addition could supply Vancouver Island and all the B.C. coast, Mr. Kiernan said.

Methane is natural gas, cooled to minus 264 degrees Fahrenheit where it liquefies, he explained.

The process reduces 630 cubic feet of gas to one cubic foot of liquid.

NEW METHODS CATCH UP

Grade 10 Math Failures To Face Summer Classes

By AB KENT

Grade 10 pupils who fail mathematics this year may have to go to summer school to become oriented with a new system of maths instruction they will face when repeating the subject next fall.

Greater Victoria school district superintendent John Gough said today the possibility of special classes in the summer is foreseen.

"A policy is being evolved," he said.

DEVELOP POLICY

"We will have to develop this policy along with a lot of others before us at this time of year. People will just have to be patient."

He spoke in reply to queries being made by parents and teachers wondering what will happen.

Under the present system, grade 10 maths is the conventional course. Next fall the program changes to an entirely different one which was introduced at the grade eight level in September, 1962.

GRADE 9 NOW

The system is now advanced to grade nine, and failures of the conventional grade nine course are being coached in remedial classes in the new maths program.

Without the extra help, or summer classes, a borderline student needing mathematics for his academic program, and who has failed his conventional year, will find himself two years behind in that subject when the new system overtakes him.

His alternative would be to drop mathematics and change his school program to the vocational stream where business mathematics or a similar elective could be taken.

POLICY CHANGE

Donald G. Macdonald, principal of Lansdowne Junior Secondary, thinks the promotional policy will have to change. The credit system of promoting is in effect in Grade X now, but it will be abandoned when the present Grade Xs pass into Grade XI.

Credits are earned by passing a subject, and gaining a minimum number of credits allows a pupil to pass to the next grade.

Grade-wide promotions are being considered instead.

GRADE-WIDE

"If we are going to have grade-wide promotions, a student should pass his constant, or compulsory subjects and make a good showing on his electives, too," Mr. Macdonald feels.

There should be no wholesale passing of entire grades, he thinks, in order to keep them ahead of the overhauling new system of maths instruction.

"We can't afford to water down our academic standards," he said.

ADJUDICATION

There likely would have to be adjudication of promotion for a borderline student, the principal said.

"Things are changing so fast—some for the good, some which don't make too much sense. But problems are created and they must be faced."

Similar problems will have to be faced in the fall in other secondary courses when grade nine literature and grade 10 language, physics 91 and Latin 91-92 also have curriculum changes.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

EXPERIENCED OUTDOORS-MAN and wildlife photographer Emerson Scott of Caro, Michigan, will present the fourth in a series of Audubon wildlife films and lectures Feb. 12 and 13 at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Junior Secondary School auditorium. His subject "Our Changing Heritage" will deal with sheep ranching in the scrub oak San Juan Mountain country of eastern Utah and southwestern Colorado.

ON TV SHOW

Ferry Man To Blow B.C.'s Horn

Premier Bennett is sending a special envoy to appear on a U.S. television show called Truth or Consequences.

The idea, he said in a press statement today, is to promote B.C.'s tourist attractions in California.

The man he has appointed to lead a select group of six to Los Angeles next month is his former executive assistant, Ronald B. Worley, who is now assistant manager of the government ferry service.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said he has not yet decided if he will send along a representative of the department's travel bureau, which normally handles tourist promotions.

Mr. Worley also will appear on a TV show called Queen for a Day.

Another show he has lined up is called First Impressions. There will also be a presentation of a totem pole on the Bob Hope show.

The trip will be from March 16 to 25.

Last year B.C. sent two groups to promote tourism in California.

One under Mr. Worley went to Los Angeles; the other, led by Ronald F. Gadsby, of the recreation department, went to San Francisco.

Private Funeral For Cleric's Son

John Neville Biddle, son of Canon and Mrs. George Biddle of St. John's Anglican Church, died Tuesday at the age of 31. Private funeral services will be conducted in St. John's Chapel this week by Archbishop Harold Sexton and will be followed by cremation.

Mr. Biddle is survived by three sisters, Joan Elizabeth Biddle of Langley, B.C.; Mrs. G. R. (Ann Dorothea) Lightbody of North Vancouver; and Mary Georgina Biddle of Calgary.

Ask The Times

Q: Could you please tell me the source (and its location) of Bowker Creek? D. J. M.

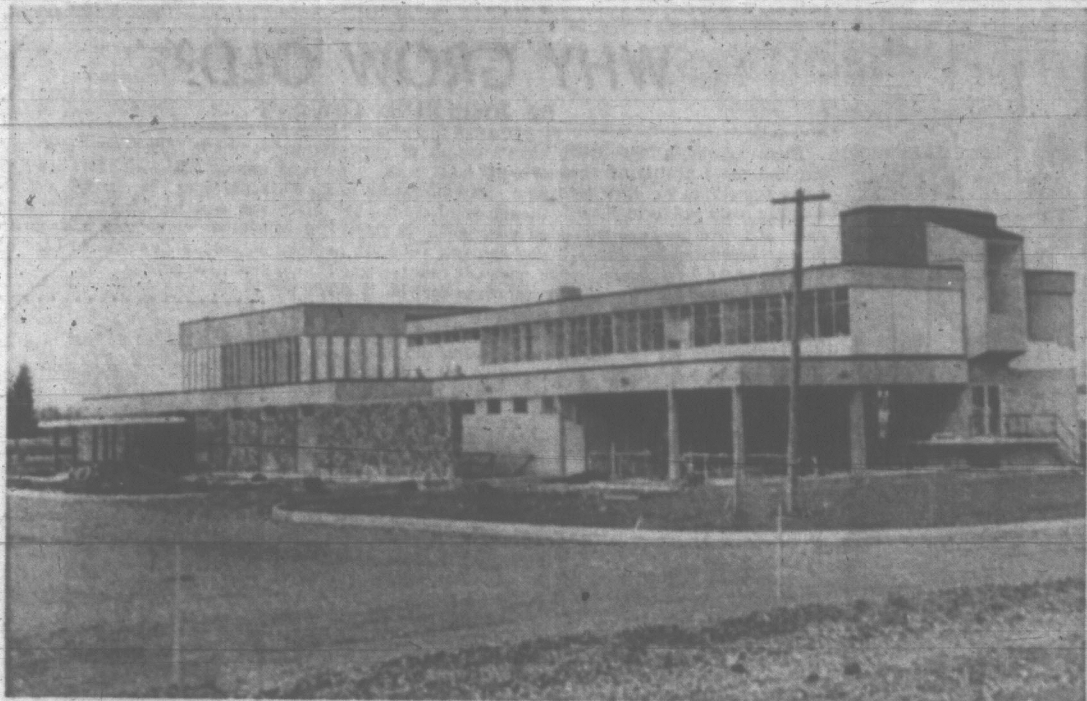

A: Bowker Creek begins in the north Shelbourne area in the vicinity of Blair Avenue. Another of its sources is water from Cedar Hill Golf Course which joins it at North Dairy Road and Doncaster. The creek also drains part of University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus. It enters Oak Bay at Fort and Ford Bay Road and empties into the sea just north of Beach Drive and Shady Lane.

Q: When did Ross Bay Cemetery first come into being?

W. A. R. A: The land for Ross Bay Cemetery was acquired by the cemetery board of Victoria in September of 1872.

Topics of the Day

Magistrate William Ostler imposed a nine months definite sentence Tuesday on a youth who, he said, needs discipline and supervision. Hercharngit Singh Baines, 1398 Vista Heights, also received a four months indefinite sentence, to be served at the Young Offenders' Unit.

He was earlier convicted of breaking and entering and theft from a private home. The magistrate said Baines had a bad probation report.

Victoria should try to persuade the government to locate the headquarters office of the proposed Bank of British Columbia in the capital city, Ald. A. W. Toone said Tuesday. His idea will go to city council for decision next week.

A constable on routine patrol foiled an attempted break-in early this morning at King Auto Radio, 1816 Quadra.

Constable Murray MacArthur scared the burglar away when he checked the building after noticing the front door open.

Police searched the surrounding area and picked up a suspect who was later released after questioning. The investigation is continuing.

A 62-year-old pedestrian is in fairly good condition today after being injured by a car Tuesday evening at Fort and Davie.

She is at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The Gordon Head Garden Club will meet at the home of D. R. Worsley, 4368 Torquay Drive, on Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

A. E. Littler, district horticulturalist with the provincial department of agriculture, will give a demonstration on fruit tree pruning. The demonstration will be open to the public.

The P&O Orient liner Oransey will mark the 10th anniversary of the company's service linking B.C. with ports around the world.

She will stop off the Dallas Road waterfront at noon Saturday to pick up pilot and official boarding party, docking at Vancouver at 5 o'clock. The City of Vancouver will hold a civic luncheon for officers and crew on Sunday.

IT COST ME TEN DOLLARS TO RENT THE SLIDE PROJECTOR.

IT COST ME ANOTHER THIRTY-THREE DOLLARS TO HAVE THE SLIDES MADE UP. THAT TOTALS TO FORTY-THREE DOLLARS.

THE ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS IS MY PERSONAL FEE. SO ALL IN ALL YOU OWE ME $143.00

AND I STILL HAVE THE SAME FAULTS!

Saanich police have acquired a dog that will be used for tracking purposes.

Chief Bert Pearson said today the dog will be used on an experimental basis and will be retained if its use proves successful.

Constable James White recently completed a course at Vancouver on handling a police dog and he will be the dogmaster.

Special city council meeting has been set for Thursday afternoon to approve working drawings for the senior citizen recreation centre in Centennial Square.

Civic precinct committee recommended adoption of the design details after architect Clive Campbell outlined them at a meeting Tuesday. Building is expected to cost about $200,000.

William Hamilton, former postmaster-general of Canada, will speak to Sales and Marketing Executives of Victoria, Monday at 5:30 p.m. in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Victoria MP David Groos will be guest speaker at a meeting of Oak Bay Liberal Association Thursday at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

Victoria Branch, B.C. Government Retired Employees' Association, will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in Moose Hall, 512 Fort Street.

Contracts for an $8,069 street lighting project and a $7,045 water main extension in Oak Bay have been awarded to the following: CLM Industries, Griffon Sales Ltd., Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., E. B. Horsman and Son Ltd., Atlas Asbestos Co., and Terminal City Iron Works Ltd.

Local contractor George Farmer, 2820 Beach Drive, today was elected honorary secretary of the Canadian Construction Association at its annual meeting in Toronto.

New president is Donald H. Jupp, president of Pilkington Brothers, Canada Ltd.

Vice-presidents for British Columbia are S. W. Welsh and R. G. Saunders, both of Vancouver.

Leslie Morris, national leader of the Communist Party of Canada, will speak on the subject "Ship the Bombs Back to the U.S.A." Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Williams Hall, 749 Broughton Street.

The bakery plant of Mc Gavin-Toastmaster Limited at 2629 Prior will be shut down March 1 and the firm will deliver bread to its Victoria customers from Vancouver by ferry.

Manager H. D. Mitchell said the economy move was taken as an alternative to raising bread prices. He said 10 to 20 per cent of the staff—between 10 and 15 employees—will have to be laid off.

A man injured in a car-truck collision Tuesday afternoon is in good condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Charles West-Jorgenson, 53, of 2005 Milton, received a deep cut on the leg and on the chin. He was in collision with a truck driven by Donald Galloway of Duncan.

The accident occurred on Burnside near Balfour.

A Port Renfrew truck owner was uninjured when his five-ton vehicle overturned on the Sooke Highway, about three miles west of Glen Lake, shortly after 11 this morning.

Sooke RCMP said R. Robertson, the owner-driver, escaped unhurt from the wreck. No information is available on the cause of the accident or damage to the truck.

The International Club will meet at the YMCA on Friday at 8 p.m. A film on Latin America will be shown.

B.C. FERRY GOES AGROUND AS ENGINES FAIL IN WIND

High winds drove the B.C. Ferry Authority's Pender Queen aground on North Pender Island about 7 p.m. Tuesday when her engines quit due to a broken fuel line.

The ferry—the former Motor Princess—had 30 passengers and four cars aboard, and was heading for Swartz Bay when the engines failed.

She was pulled free by the larger B.C. ferry Queen of Saanich, which stood by until the fuel line was cleared and the propulsion machinery started.

The Pender Queen completed the trip to Swartz Bay under her own power. B.C. Ferry manager Monty Aldous said today there was no visible damage to the vessel, but a routine inspection would be made by Canada Steamship Inspection officials.

City Basks in Calm Between Storm Play

High winds Tuesday appear to have blown the cobwebs from Victoria's weather picture—at least temporarily and weatherman Bill Mackie puts a great deal of emphasis on the temporary aspect of pleasant conditions.

Victoria is between two disturbances, one out in the Pacific, the other bringing blizzards to the Prairies. Our protection is a massive high-pressure area, which should provide mostly sunny weather on Thursday.

Winds will vary from light to 15 miles per hour overnight with temperatures varying from 25 to 32 tonight and up to 48 Thursday.

Tuesday's winds, which brought lashing rain in the morning before clearing the sky of clouds, averaged 54 miles an hour with gusts up to 73 miles per hour. Damage to communication and power systems was negligible.

Legislature Speakers

Debate on the Speech from the Throne will wind up in the Legislature Thursday.

There will be three speakers, firing the final salvo from each party in the House.

Starting at 2 p.m. will be Liberal Harry McKay of Fernie. The New Democratic Party windup man will be Alex Macdonald of Vancouver-East. The government case will be completed by Resources Minister Ray Williston, who will speak about power development.

On Friday, Premier W. A. C. Bennett will introduce his new budget.

Man Fined $100 Following Lovers' Quarrel

A lovers' quarrel Tuesday night ended up with the man spending a night in jail.

William Evans, 1234 Richardson, went there after obstructing a policeman who tried to break up an argument he was having with his former fiancée.

He was fined $100 in court today for the offence. Afterwards he apologized and shook hands with Constable Bonar Hannay, the man who arrested him.

Cons. Hannay told the court that Evans wouldn't let the girl get out of a taxi outside the Blue Line stand, 708 Johnson, Tuesday evening.

He had a scuffle with police and had a "hostile" attitude to them. Cons. Hannay said Evans had been drinking heavily and was emotionally upset.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was easy to understand why Evans was annoyed but he didn't "assist his cause by behaving in this way."

Porcelain Show Next Week At Art Gallery

One of the largest collections of 18th century English porcelain and enamels will be shown at the Art Gallery beginning next week.

The Ann and Joseph Pearson collection will be on display daily except Mondays from Feb. 13 to March 8. It is the first time the collection has been shown publicly as a whole.

At the same time, "Landscapes From a Hundred Years" will be exhibited. Included will be paintings from private and public collections sent here from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Saskatoon.

The exhibition will go to Vancouver after its four-week showing here.

Royal Oak Location For Vendor?

By FRANK RUTTER

The provincial government may approve a liquor store for Saanich—but not at the location sought by petitioners.

The attorney-general's department, it was learned today, is far from convinced that the store should be at the Town and Country Shopping Centre, a location specified in the petition.

However, it is sympathetic to the expression of opinion in the petition, signed by more than 4,000 residents, that a store is needed.

CONCERNED

It would prefer to see the store at Royal Oak, or possibly near the intersection of Quadra and McKenzie.

Officials appear somewhat concerned that the petition is so specific about Town and Country.

They feel that would be too near the centre of Victoria, where there are already two liquor stores.

SERVE MORE

Either of the other locations mentioned would serve a wider area of Saanich municipality, yet would not conflict with residential areas.

Both areas are zoned for commercial development.

Royal Oak would be preferable, it is felt, because it would be accessible to the greatest number of Saanich people.

HEAVILY USED

The only thing in its favor is that it is a heavily-used shopping area, but officials believe just as many Victoria people go there as Saanich residents.

The petitioners have an appointment next Monday with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

BATTLE WON?

Council has appointed member Hugh Curtis to accompany the delegation, headed by Nora Lindsay.

Both Mrs. Lindsay and council believe their battle is won, but their choice of site may throw a wrench into their hopes.

The only public opposition has come from Saanich Social Credit MLA John Tisdale, but his neighbor, Herbert Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) Tuesday night spoke in favor of a Saanich store, and tossed in a request of his own for the people of Sooke.

LIGHTNING CHESS ROBOT TESTED

It's a Ding-Dong Battle

By MARGE GILROY

The ancient game of chess caught up with the machine age Tuesday night at the Victoria Chess Club.

A light flashed, a bell rang and 30 arms automatically flew out to guard a king. It happened every 15 seconds without fail.

Controlling the play was a lightning chess robot, first of its kind to be used in Canada. It calls for quick thinking and not long deliberations.

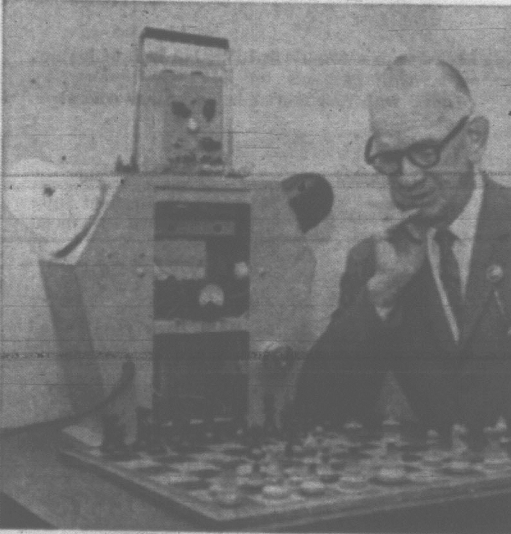

A tournament which used to take six months to play can now be played in one evening.

Inventor Reg. R. Bennett, 3318 Whittier Street, has been working on the robot for the past two years. It consists of an electronic clock, a ding dong doorbell and whatever it takes to make a robot flash red and white at 15 second intervals.

Originally, Mr. Bennett said the bell rang ding dong for each play but the players were under such tension that they were automatically reaching for another move when the second dong rang.

Now it is regulated so there is a ding for one player and a dong for another. Soon players will be conditioned to a 15 second reflex.

If the play is not completed in 15 seconds and the player is not in check he loses his move. The robot

CHESS HEEBIE-JEEBIES could become new chess club malady when the lightning robot watching over club director Daniel MacAdam has been in action a little longer.

Neither had the players when they sat down to play their first nervous ding dong tournament of lightning chess.

But Vancouver Island champion Olabi Saraknas, undaunted by the flashing robot, won five-straight rounds. Oldest member of the club Albert Moody came second with four rounds and A. E. Holzknecht and Allan Lane tied for third place.

REBELS BEATEN DOWN

Dief Tightens
Tory ControlBy ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—John Diefenbaker Tuesday tightened his control of the Progressive Conservative party, putting down dissenting elements of the party in what appeared to be a "no contest" vote.

Of the approximately 800 voting delegates attending the Tory party's annual meeting only about 35 stood up in opposition to their leader.

The remainder gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence.

Among those who publicly opposed Mr. Diefenbaker—a move for a secret ballot—was defeated—were former defence minister Douglas Harkness, of Calgary, and former Conservative MP from Toronto, M. J. McDonnell.

On the vote for the secret ballot, the idea was pushed aside by about 4 to 1, so far as reporters watching from a mezzanine could judge.

The confidence vote climaxed an emotion-charged day, when rumor after rumor about new developments in the leadership issue swirled through the meeting rooms and corridors of the Chateau Laurier.

The day also saw Mr. Diefenbaker firmly and aggressively tell the rank-and-file of the party, in one of the most skillful speeches of his career, that they must end internal bickering and either back him or get rid of him.

The Conservative leader was not in the Chateau Laurier ballroom, where delegates met, when the vote was taken. He made his appeal to the meeting in a speech delivered in the early afternoon, then, with his wife, left the ballroom to mingle with delegates in corridors, and to rest. He had delivered his fourth speech in as many days.

The vote was taken shortly before six p.m. after most of the afternoon had been taken up in the debate over whether the leadership confidence question should be decided by secret ballot or the traditional "stand-up-and-be-counted" vote.

Both Mr. Nowlan and Sen. McCutcheon argued that the resolution urging a five per cent tax cut—plus a wide range of other tax relief measures for industry—was irresponsible because it failed to get down to "the dollars and cents of it."

Such a tax-cut proposal should not be approved, the senator said, unless it was known "if we can afford the luxury without further deficits."

Prof. G. M. Clark, an economist from the University of B.C., said the proposal would mean an increase in the federal deficit to more than $1 billion a year.

We will return to Mr. Kiernan later, but first a preachment to certain members who, in this matter of replies to the Throne, have been taking bit between teeth and galloping all round the compass.

A touch of rhetoric, gentlemen, is necessary to parliamentary debate as horse radish to roast beef; but please, let it be remembered also that brevity is the soul of wit.

We could have managed very well, for instance, without NDP William Hartley's excruciatingly detailed walkabout in which I verily believe we took tea with each burgher of Yale Riding.

Also, while young Liberal Dr. Patrick McGee of Vancouver-Point Grey is one of the Legislature's best, there are those who were less than pleased to find him still holding forth when the evening sitting commenced.

Our new and yearling members would do well to study ministerial technique. With much of genuine importance to impart, the cabinet member generally manages to do so with grace... but also with a minimum of fluff-duff!

Hoffa
Boasted
Of 'Fix'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—A teamsters' official testified today that James Hoffa once boasted he had fixed the jury in his 1962 conspiracy in Nashville.

The government witness said Hoffa told him, "I have got the colored male juror in my hip pocket."

The testimony by Edward Partin, officer of a Baton Rouge, La., teamsters' local, was the first to link Hoffa directly to charges that he tried to bribe and influence jurors in the conspiracy trial.

Partin also said Hoffa told him "he would pay $15,000 to $20,000 to get to the jury." He said the proposal was made in a Nashville hotel room while the trial was in progress.

BEST BET

Partin quoted the teamster chief as saying: "It looks like our best bet is a hung jury. That's the same as acquittal, because they'd never try me again."

There was only one Negro juror in Hoffa's conspiracy trial. He was Gratins Fields, a retired railroad worker. Fields was one of three panel members discharged before the case was declared a mistrial.

Partin appeared calm when taking the witness stand today over strong defence objections that he was a "government informer" planted in their midst. He testified with his hands folded neatly in his lap.

Hoffa, to the contrary, stared intently at the witness and repeatedly turned to scribble notes for his defence lawyers.

SMELTER PLAN PUSHED

Fuel Source Holds Key
To Boom on CharlottesBy FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

A huge new mining industry may rise on B.C.'s isolated Queen Charlotte Islands, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan disclosed Tuesday.

He told the legislature the government is trying to stimulate location of a smelter and refinery for iron ore deposits on the islands.

The problem to be overcome, he said, is finding a source of fuel.

City Unions Stay Off Job;
Burrard Works

Three Victoria shipyard union leaders were attending strike-settlement talks in Vancouver today amid growing disunity and confusion among workers.

About 1,400 employees at Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot went out at 7 a.m. today, while 600 workers at Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver responded to a provincial labor department plea to work at least until strike-settlement talks could be held.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands, ordered to Vancouver by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, met at 10 a.m. with union and management representatives.

'ENOUGH TIME'

Metal Trades Council president James McConachy, leading the Victoria delegation of three to the Vancouver meeting, said the unions here decided to go ahead and strike because "we feel there has been enough time to get together on this thing."

Two recent meetings were held in Vancouver without Victoria representation.

Although Burrard union men postponed their strike, Mr. McConachy claimed the labor department approach came "too late" to halt the "strike machinery in motion."

At VMD this morning, placarded pickets shivered as they moved slowly around the chilly Dallas Road frontage of the yard.

MEN BITTER

More bitter talk was against Burrard workers, whose 600 non-strikers seemed to bear out Tuesday's comment by Burrard general manager David Wallace:

"Different unions have different objections. We can't do anything until they all get together and think and act alike."

When a commissioner arrived at VMD shortly after 7 a.m., he called: "Get these gates open—the strike doesn't start until 11 a.m."

He was ignored.

At Yarrows, 50 office workers not involved in the dispute were advised to decide for themselves whether to support yard workers.

All honored the strike and did not report for work. VMD office staff worked as usual.

Still unfinished in the idle VMD yard is the near-completed B.C. ferry "Queen of Nanaimo," the soon-to-be-launched "Queen of New Westminster," and two barges.

TUNIS (UPI)—United Nations Secretary General Thant today broke off his African tour and is returning to New York to deal with the Cyprus crisis, it was announced today.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—An emergency airlift began removing hundreds of American women and children from this Mediterranean trouble spot today as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

Terrorists bombed the American Embassy in Nicosia Tuesday night, slightly injured a marine guard, then set ablaze two cars owned by U.S. government employees.

U.S. Ambassador Fraser Wilkins ordered a "voluntary" evacuation of American dependents to Beirut, Lebanon, explaining he no longer had confidence in the ability of Greek Cypriot police to keep order.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president, inspected damage to the embassy and denounced the bombing as the work of "heinous criminals."

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek Cypriot opposition to an American-British plan to assign a NATO peace force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

REJECTS NATO FORCE

Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answerable to the United Nations Security Council, The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would give the Soviet Union a chance to interfere.

France also dimmed the plan's chances of success with an announcement today that it would take no part in the force.

The local situation improved, however, as the British Army announced that 50 Greek Cypriot hostages had been released by the Turkish Cypriots.

An army spokesman said British troops obtained the release of about 50 Greek Cypriot students and a doctor who disappeared Tuesday while travelling on buses on the island.
